The Friends of St Mary's College was established in 2009 with the aim of:

- ❖ promoting the reputation of the College and the School of Divinity that is hosted within it;
- ❖ connecting the friends of St Mary's of the past with the friends of the present and the future;
- ❖ engaging with local and academic communities in the work of the School of Divinity;
- ❖ connecting with Alumni groups in different countries and regions;
- ❖ facilitating attendance at conferences organised by the School of Divinity.

Being a Friend of St Mary's brings you:

- ❖ the opportunity to participate in events, such as lectures, conferences, and symposia;
- ❖ the opportunity to participate in the annual reception of Scottish Universities at the Society of Biblical Literature or American Academy of Religion meetings;
- ❖ a regular electronic update on news and developments in the College;
- ❖ the chance to contribute to the academic life of the community of St Mary's, the College and its beautiful grounds.

As a Friend of St Mary's you will contribute to the future of St Mary's College by means of its endowment. This endowment will support a range of initiatives within the College, which may include the provision of student scholarships, the purchase of books and other resources and the funding of capital projects.

About St Mary's College and the School of Divinity

Founded in 1539

St Mary's College, the home of Divinity at the University, was founded in 1539 and is still housed in its fine sixteenth-century buildings. These provide a focus for the College and contribute immensely to the research, teaching and social networks integral to a vibrant academic community. Adjoining the College is the King James Library which, in conjunction with the main University Library, houses an exceptional collection of books and periodicals for teaching and research.

Excellence in teaching and research

The School of Divinity has an internationally renowned staff and a reputation for high quality in both teaching and research. The Research Assessment Exercise in 2008 confirmed St Andrews as a leading British centre for research in theology. Submitting all of its academic staff, 95 per cent of research produced was judged to be of international quality. The "Roundel" serves as a state-of-the-art study centre exclusively for the use of postgraduates in Divinity.
