

University of St Andrews

School of Philosophical and Anthropological Studies

PY4816- Classical Metatheory

Course Description

Class Teacher: Dr Peter Clark ,Edgecliffe (The Scores) Room G05; Ext. 2470; E-mail: pjc@st-andrews.ac.uk my web-page is at <http://www.st-andrews.ac.uk/~pjc/> is the module teacher. Students should feel free to contact Dr Clark about any aspect of the module's organisation or content. Dr Clark's office hours are Tuesday 10-11, Wednesday 12-1 At these times any student is welcome to come and see me about any matter arising from lectures, examples class or reading. You are very welcome to make an appointment at another time if you wish. Please do this through the School Secretary, Room G09, Edgecliffe. All course materials are available from Dr Clark's web-site (<http://www.st-andrews.ac.uk/~pjc/>) or from the Philosophy study resource web-site at <http://www.st-andrews.ac.uk/~vlibrary/philcourses.html>

Location G01

Times: Tuesday 9.00am-10am Thursday 9am –10 am

Enrolment Tuesday 28th September 2004, G01 9.00am

The class meets weekly, there is no meeting on Tuesday December 7th

Course Text:

John L. Bell, David DeVidi and Graham Solomon : Logical Options: An Introduction to Classical and Alternative Logics, Broadview Press, pp.xi-300, ISBN 1-55111-2997-3.

The first three Chapters only . Copies of this book can be purchased from me at the first lecture. Copies will be available from the Departmental library and the Short Loan Collection.

Each Thursday you will be given an examples sheet to work through and we will use the Tuesday slot to work through the previous week's example sheet. Thursday session will consist of a lecture.

Course assessment:

I propose to assess the course by two class tests (40%) and a two hour examination (60%). I will discuss this with you in the first lecture. The course and assessment will be conducted according to the rules and guidelines laid down for all Honours modules and these are clearly explained in the Honours Programmes in Philosophy Handbook, to which you are directed.

Peter Clark