Resources available to PhD students

For further sources of support, visit the Student Association’s Help Hub: https://www.yourunion.net/support/ helphub/ or the ASC centre: https://www.st-andrews.ac.uk/students/advice/asc/

LIBRARIES

Of our university’s various libraries, the ones most relevant to you would be the Main Library and the postgraduate Martyrs Kirk Library, both of which are near our department: https://www.st-andrews.ac.uk/library/contact/openingtimes/

Social Anthropology also has the "CAS" with its own small library. The CAS also has a computer room for masters and pre-fieldwork PhD students.

It is worth knowing that you can always order more books for the library by emailing morebooks@st-andrews.ac.uk.

CAREERS

St Andrews’ Careers Centre has one-to-one appointments available for careers guidance and help with workshops. They also run a variety of application workshops and careers events with graduate employers.

See more at: https://www.st-andrews.ac.uk/careers/

ELT

If English is not your first language, the university's centre for English Language Teaching (ELT) might very well be of use to you. Amongst other things, they offer free English tutorials and one-to-one help with English. See more at: https://www.st-andrews.ac.uk/elt/

CAPOD

The Centre for Academic, Professional and Organisational Development (CAPOD) offers appointments and drop-in-sessions to help with academic skills (e.g time management). They also run the Professional Skills Curriculum, which includes workshops to develop the types of professional and IT skills that employers value. For PGR students specifically, they run the GRADskills programme to help improve your employability employability inside and outside of academia: https://www.st-andrews.ac.uk/capod/students/pgresearch/
