1. Brief description of Event (50-100 words): A full day workshop as part of the wider Process Symposium, exploring the pedagogy of process research with leading academics in the field. The event included sessions on process philosophy and its relevance in management scholarship, the typologies of process research, research methods, and future directions. It gave an overview of process research and its application in management and organisation studies, and explored ways of understanding and conveying the process orientation to students and research scholars.

2. What were the benefits of attending and what did you gain from the experience in terms of transferable skills and knowledge. I have gained a broader understanding of process theory—a small but burgeoning research orientation in management and organisation studies. Attending the workshop has helped me to consider new and different ways in which process research can be explained, taught and practiced. The workshop helped me identify core themes for teaching process theory as well as key references.

3. What actions will you be taking as a result of attending or by making new networking contacts. Including stronger process orientation in teaching and learning; introducing students to more processual ways of thinking about and understanding the world.

4. Can you share any additional resources produced in connection with the event (e.g. feedback from participants, training resources, website links, and additional materials.
