Volunteer Agreement

Team Challenge Day
Cambo 18th June

Our commitment to you:

We will respect your personal decisions and allow you to make your own decisions about the level of activity you can carry out.

We will make every reasonable effort to make sure that the activities carried out during the day are risk assessed and that the activities are described at the start of the day.

If you tell us that you have a disability which puts you at a substantial disadvantage in accessing the activities during the Team Challenge Day we will consider what adjustments, if any, are reasonable for us to make.

Your commitment to us:

You should not exert yourself beyond your own abilities. If you know or are concerned that you have a medical condition which might interfere with your participation in the activity, you should get relevant medical professional advice and follow that advice. You must also alert the University before participating in the Team Challenge Day and alert a member of staff on the day.

You should let your Team Coordinator know immediately if you feel unwell during the Team Challenge Day.

It is your responsibility to follow the health and safety advice given to you by staff members throughout the day. This includes using any equipment provided safely and appropriately and remaining alert to hazards within the environment. You have a duty of care to your fellow volunteers and should remain alert to their presence throughout the day.

It is your responsibility to ensure that you can safely and comfortably participate in the Team Challenge Day. You undertake the Team Challenge Day at your own risk.

Respect is a two way street: We as facilitators, Team Leaders, and Team Challenge Day participants agree to behave in a way that is respectful to each other.

This Team Challenge Day is an initiative of the University Wellbeing and Engagement Group. Acceptance of this agreement is a condition of participation in the initiative. The Wellbeing and Engagement Group may be contacted at wellgrp@st-andrews.ac.uk
