4th Australasian CSEAR Conference: Hosted by Deakin University
March 30th - April 1st 2005

For further details of the conference, including plenary sessions, abstracts and downloads of some of the papers please see: www.deakin.edu.au/conferences/csear

Papers and Presentations

Carol Adams and Patty McNichola, Deakin University: Making a difference: journeying with an organisation towards social and environmental accountability

Amanda Ball, Nottingham University: Business and sustainability: agenda for change or soothing palliatives?

David Campbell, University of Newcastle: The materiality of social and environmental disclosures to investment Analysts

Christina Chiang, Auckland University of Technology: Financial auditors and environmental matters: a review of the literature

Courtney Clowes, Deakin University: Evaluating how organisations account for Occupational Health and Safety

Craig Deegan, RMIT University: Assurance of triple bottom line reports

Mary Graham, Deakin University: Agriculture sustainability and efficiency

James Guthrie, Sydney University: Using content analysis as a research method to inquire into social and environmental disclosure: what is new?

Dayana Jalaludin, University of Malaysia: The effects of environment related management accounting (EMA) on business organisations' performance

Sumit K Lodhia, Australian National University: Corporate perceptions of web based environmental communication: an exploratory study into companies in the Australian Minerals Industry

Donna Mangion, Charles Sturt University: An evaluation of social and environmental accounting education in Australian universities

Reg Mathews, Charles Sturt University: Methodological issues in social and environmental accounting research

Dianne McGrath, Charles Sturt University: Extending the Mathews’ Matrix to incorporate time and national origin in categorising the social accounting research literature

Markus Milne, Otago University: Creating adventures in wonderland: the journey metaphor and environmental sustainability

Larry O’Connor, La Trobe University: The search for a link between social and economic performance

Sharon O’Neill, University of Western Sydney: Accounting for lost time: an exploration of workplace safety performance measurement

Dick Osborn, Green Measures: Diffusing accounting innovations for sustainable governance

Helen Scarborough, Deakin University: Estimating community equity

Matthew Tilling, Flinders University of South Australia: A comprehensive model of legitimacy theory and its application to corporate social disclosure
Helen Tregidga, Otago University: From sustainable management to sustainable development: a longitudinal analysis of language by a leading environmental reporter