Undergraduate Senate Regulations
Amendments taking effect from 2011-2012

Faculty of Arts Senate Regulations

1. Trailing Credits into Honours

Reason for amendment: In Divinity and Science, no student may be permitted to proceed to the final year of the Honours programme who has gained fewer than 240 credits in 1000 and 2000 level modules. This is the same requirement within the Faculty of Arts and needs to be reflected in the Senate Regulations.

II ARTS REGULATIONS, D. Honours

4. A student who has gained at least 240 credits, of which:-

(a) at least 160 credits have been gained in modules identified by Arts Regulation 2 (i) - (vii) above;

(b) at least 80 credits have been gained at 2000 level may be admitted to an Honours Degree programme.

A student having satisfied (a) and (b) but gained less than 240 credits may be permitted, with the permission of the Head(s) of School concerned, to enter an Honours programme and to attend additional 1000 or 2000 level modules worth up to 40 credits in the first year of the Honours programme. No student may be permitted to proceed to the final year of the Honours programme who has gained fewer than 240 credits in 1000 and 2000 level modules in accordance with (a) and (b).

Approval Authority

Various amendments made to the Senate Regulations to take account of new levels of approval authority put in place as a result of the Senate Efficiency Review undertaken in July/August 2011. In most cases this has resulted in a change of approval authority from the Faculty Business Committees (now disbanded) to the relevant Dean of Faculty.
