A directed reading project designed to encourage the development of skills of historical analysis through concentrated study of a topic chosen by the student in consultation with a supervisor. The project offers the student the opportunity to develop skills of research, analysis and presentation prior to the dissertation. As such, it will serve as a useful transition between the more structured teaching of undergraduate work and the independence of postgraduate dissertations. The project will normally take the form of two or three essays comprising methodological or bibliographical studies and primary research on narrowly defined topics.

Programme module type:

- Compulsory for the Middle Eastern History Postgraduate Programme.
- Optional for the Iranian Studies Postgraduate Programme.

Learning and teaching methods and delivery:

- Weekly contact: Fortnightly tutorials.

Assessment pattern: Coursework = 100%

This module is intended to take an in-depth look at the changing nature of Iran from the perspective of its politics, religion and culture in the period ca. 200-1000. During this time it went from being an expansive imperial power (3rd - 7th centuries) to a defeated province of the early Arab state (7th - 8th centuries), to the heart of a new Islamic empire (8th - 9th centuries) and finally the home of a number of Iranian dynasties (9th century onwards). The module will look at such issues as Sasanid Iran's place in Late Antique culture, the passage from Zoroastrianism to Islam, the meaning of Iranian identity, Iran's impact on Islamic culture and politics, the significance of the rise of the New Persian language, changes in the social makeup of Iran over the period under study, and so on. While following a broad chronological perspective, students will be encouraged to engage with the themes and historical tensions highlighted by the module.

Programme module type: Optional for the Iranian Studies Postgraduate Programmes.

Learning and teaching methods and delivery: Weekly contact: 1 x 2-hour seminar.

Assessment pattern: Coursework = 100%

Module Co-ordinator: Prof A Ansari
