Generations in Russian Literature and Culture: Metaphors of kinship have proven remarkably robust in the history of pre-revolutionary Russia and the Soviet and post-Soviet states, providing means for writers to conceptualise their relationship with their literary predecessors (father/son, uncle/nephew, for example), to imagine the nation in either epic (fatherland) or lyrical (motherland) terms, and, in the Soviet period, for the political authorities to develop discourses of (filial) loyalty and betrayal. This module investigates issues in Russian culture and history through the lens of genealogy, drawing on the expertise of researchers in the Department of Russian in order to broaden and deepen students’ understanding of the Russian experience from the nineteenth century to the modern day.

Programme module type:
- Compulsory for Russian Studies Postgraduate Programme.
- Optional for Crossways in Cultural Narratives Mundus Postgraduate Programmes.
- Optional for other MLitt students outside Modern Languages with permission of both Schools.

Planned timetable: To be arranged.

The module offers students the opportunity to draw on expertise in the Department of Russian for the exploration of a relevant topic in some depth. Potential subjects of study might cover, for example, the work of a single author like Anton Chekhov or Andrei Belyi, the development of a single genre like the historical novel or political drama, or the ramifications of a period concept like the Russian Golden Age or the Silver Age. Teaching and learning will proceed on the basis of a series of seminars and an agreed programme of directed reading.

Programme module type: Compulsory for Russian Studies Postgraduate Programme. Optional for Comparative Literature, Cultural Identity Studies, and Crossways in Cultural Narratives Mundus Postgraduate Programmes. Optional for other MLitt students outside Modern Languages with permission of both Schools.

Learning and teaching methods and delivery: Weekly contact: Fortnightly tutorials.

Assessment pattern: Coursework = 100%

ML5004 Research and Professional Skills

SCOTCAT Credits: 20  SCQF Level 11  Semester: 2

Planned timetable: To be arranged.

This module introduces students to a range of skills which are essential to advanced researchers and key to many other non-academic workplaces. We will focus on analytic and critical skills (for instance writing abstracts; critically reviewing articles and research seminar presentations; producing a research poster); oral skills (presentations; asking questions in research seminars); group work (planning a conference); IT research skills. The skills sessions will be tailored to suit modern linguists and comparatists. Seminar preparation and coursework will be directly linked to individual students’ own research interests. First year PhD students are invited to audit some part of the programme, adding a valuable component of peer input to the module.

Programme module type: Compulsory for Comparative Literature, Cultural Identity Studies, French Studies, German Studies, Italian Studies, Middle Eastern Literary and Cultural Studies, Russian Studies, Spanish and Latin American Studies Postgraduate Programmes. Optional for Crossways in Cultural Narratives Mundus Postgraduate Programmes. Optional for other MLitt students outside Modern Languages with permission of both Schools.
