EH5102 Environmental History: Nature and the Western World (1800-2000) (20)
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 11	Semester:	1
Planned timetable:	To be arranged.
Environmental history is the study of human interaction with the natural world through time. Prior to the nineteenth century, nature was seen as an integral part of history. Similarly, this module encourages students to view nature not as a static backdrop, but as a vital element of history. Focusing principally upon Britain and North America from the eighteenth century to present, this module explores the history of human interaction with the natural world. It seeks to understand how politics and religious beliefs have influenced answers to persistent questions - such as, How old is the earth? What is an animal? What is a human? What is life? Moreover, the complex mixture of global exploration and trade, agricultural and industrial innovation, and burgeoning population will be assessed in relation to concerns over the degradation of the environment.
Programme module type:	Optional for MLitts in Environmental History, Modern and Contemporary Literature and Culture, and MSc in Sustainable Development.
Anti-requisite(s):	EH5003, MO3314
Learning and teaching methods and delivery:	Weekly contact: 2 hour-seminar.
Assessment pattern:	Coursework = 100%

EH5004 Environmental Disasters: Crisis, Catastrophe, and Risk in the Modern World (1755 to Present) (40)
SCOTCAT Credits:	40	SCQF Level 11	Semester:	1
Planned timetable:	To be arranged.
In the early twenty-first century, the fate of 'civilisation' seems caught between the inevitability of progress and the unavoidability of collapse. Increasingly, this fate has been tied to human interaction with the non-human natural world. This module offers helpful historical insight into the existential crises precipitated by human interaction with the natural world. But both history and evolution can be characterised as combinations of gradual and sudden change. Through the study of past environmental disasters, this module seeks to understand historical continuities and discontinuities. Bookended by the Lisbon earthquake of 1755 and Hurricane Katrina of 2005, the module explores the nature of 'natural' disasters; and the social and cultural factors that shaped and framed them. Moreover, it considers the ways in which an increasingly industrial, urban, and 'global' world may have generated distinctly 'modern' risks.

MO5023 Disease and Environment (c.1500 - c.2000) (40)
SCOTCAT Credits:	40	SCQF Level 11	Semester:	1
Planned timetable:	To be arranged.
Before they are members of political and religious groupings, humans are biological entities. As such, throughout history humans have had to devise complex strategies to cope with fundamental biological factors. Focusing primarily upon an Anglo-American context, this course examines the manner in which sickness and death have shaped human history - both biologically and culturally - over the past 500 years. Consideration of patients' and practitioners' expectations, and of the changing meanings of cure, treatment, and care, encourages students to appreciate changing attitudes to health, hygiene, healing and illness within the social history of medicine. Moreover, through an examination of medical practitioners, hospitals, quarantine, inoculation, imperialism, urbanisation, and industrialisation, students will gain an appreciation of the historical relationships between the environment and disease.

GE5051 Environmental Management in Scotland

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 11	Semester:	1
Planned timetable:	To be arranged.
This module focuses on current environmental management issues in Scotland. It provides, firstly, a presentation of the fundamental elements of the various systems of land and resource management (e.g. forestry, agriculture and crofting, wildlife, freshwater resources, conservation), and secondly, examples of the ways in which these systems interact. Throughout, the module aims to engender a holistic understanding of environmental management, in contrast to the sectoral approach traditionally employed by central and local government. The ultimate aim is to leave students with an informed conceptual framework for evaluating the merits of management proposals, with their attendant implications for environmental change and economic development. A particular focus, employing topical case studies and a field visit, will be the conflicts that are increasingly arising as interest groups with contrasting philosophies and value systems compete for the finite resources of Scotland's wild places.
Programme module type:	Optional for Environmental History
Anti-requisite(s):	MO5023
Learning and teaching methods and delivery:	Weekly contact: 2 x 1-hour lectures weekly, and a weekend field excursion.
Assessment pattern:	Coursework = 100%

MO5602 Directed Reading in Modern History
SCOTCAT Credits:	40	SCQF Level 11	Semester:	1 or 2
Planned timetable:	To be arranged.
This module offers a directed reading project designed to encourage the development of skills of historical analysis through concentrated study of a topic chosen by the student. The project offers the student the opportunity to develop skills of research, analysis and presentation prior to the dissertation. As such, it will serve as a useful transition between the more structured teaching which characterises undergraduate work and the independence of postgraduate dissertations. The project will generally take the form of a bibliographical essay or primary research on a narrowly defined topic, but the guidelines are sufficiently flexible to accommodate new developments in learning and information dissemination.
Programme module type:	Compulsory for Intellectual History, Modern History, Transnational, Global and Spatial History Postgraduate Programmes. Optional for The Book: History and Techniques of Analysis, Central and East European Studies, Early Modern History, Environmental History, Reformation Studies Postgraduate Programmes.

MO5606 Perceptions of Central and Eastern Europe
SCOTCAT Credits:	40	SCQF Level 11	Semester:	1 or 2
Planned timetable:	To be arranged.
Perceptions of Central and Eastern Europe are as diverse as the ethnic and cultural characteristics of the region itself, and have undergone significant transformation since the emergence of modern nationalism in the mid-nineteenth century. As the Mitteleuropa of German imperial aspirations gave way to the successor states of the Versailles settlement, then to Soviet-dominated Eastern Europe in a polarised Cold War continent, and, most recently, to the post-Communist "return to Europe", the correspondingly evolving views from the periphery, from Germany and Russian, and from within the region itself offer a rich and challenging subject for advanced historical study.
Programme module type:	Optional for Central and East European Studies, Environmental History, Modern History and Transnational, Global and Spatial History Postgraduate Programmes.

MO5613 History of Modern Science
SCOTCAT Credits:	40	SCQF Level 11	Semester:	1
Planned timetable:	To be arranged.
Science and technology are key elements of modernity, and, of course, they have a history. This module will introduce students to core themes in the history of science from the Scientific Revolution onwards. Students will read a mixture of primary and secondary sources, and will be challenged to think about changes over time in such issues as: the definition and cultural status of 'science'; the status and role of its practitioners; the motivations for the pursuit of natural knowledge; the methods employed for making and communicating knowledge; and the spaces and sites of knowledge production and communication. Sessions will usually be co-taught by members of staff who bring different perspectives, cases and period-expertise to the discussion.
