This module forms the first part of the core training provided in the MLitt in Classics. The focus of the first semester's core is on the sources for the study of the Classical world, how to access them (i.e. the resources available for classical research), and how to use this material sensitively and appropriately. The module is appropriate for all MLitt students regardless of their specific interests, and covers the full range of evidence from antiquity, including literary, philosophical, historiographical and other written sources (including how to work with fragmentary sources, textual transmission and other questions); material evidence (including ancient art, excavation, field survey, museum collections). The module also includes a number of workshop sessions on practical skills (e.g. presentations, research proposals etc.) and on theoretical approaches to classical evidence (e.g. narratology, practical criticism).

Learning and teaching methods of delivery: Weekly contact: 2-hour seminar (x 10), 1-hour workshops (x6), 2 hours of fieldwork in total

Assessment pattern: 72-hour Take-Home Practical Examination = 75%, Coursework = 25%

Re-assessment pattern: 72-hour Take-home Practical Examination = 100%

Module coordinator: Dr M J Carroll

This module forms the second part of the core training provided in the MLitt in Classics. The focus of the second semester’s core is a series of seminars structured around themes in classical research (e.g. the environment, performance, reception). The module is appropriate for all MLitt students regardless of their specific interests. The module also includes a number of workshops on practical 'life skills', e.g. careers (in Classics and beyond), publishing, teaching, outreach and impact, and a small number of theory workshops which support the thematic seminars by introducing students to some key theoretical approaches used in research on the Classical world.

This module, designed to follow on from GK1006, studies a wide range of Greek prose texts. All set texts will be studied in the original Greek. The module starts with the Socratic dialogues of Xenophon, and then turns to Greek oratory, Greek historiography and Greek writing in the Roman empire. The module will illustrate the scope and vitality of the Greek literary tradition, and it will give students a grounding in the main genres of Greek prose writing. Classes will include both detailed study of the set texts in their cultural context and linguistic/translation exercises designed to enhance students' knowledge of Greek. The module as a whole is carefully structured so as to integrate linguistic progress with widened horizons in the student's knowledge of Greek literature.

This module, designed to follow on from GK1002, studies a wide range of Greek prose texts. All set texts will be studied in the original Greek. The module starts with the Socratic dialogues of Xenophon, and then turns to Greek oratory, Greek historiography and Greek writing in the Roman empire. The module will illustrate the scope and vitality of the Greek literary tradition, and it will give students a grounding in the main genres of Greek prose writing. Classes will include both detailed study of the set texts in their cultural context and linguistic/translation exercises designed to enhance students’ knowledge of Greek. The module as a whole is carefully structured so as to integrate linguistic progress with widened horizons in the student’s knowledge of Greek literature.

Pre-requisite(s): Before taking this module you must pass GK1002

Anti-requisite(s): You cannot take this module if you take GK2001

Learning and teaching methods of delivery: Weekly contact: 4 or 5 classes.

Scheduled learning: 44 hours

Guided independent study: 156 hours

Assessment pattern: As used by St Andrews:

2-hour Written Examination = 50%, Coursework = 50% (essay, 20%, 3 class tests, 30%)

Re-assessment pattern: 3-hour Written Examination = 100%

This module, designed to follow on from GK2003, offers a carefully balanced combination of literary and linguistic study. Students will study a diverse range of ancient poetry in the original Greek, starting with Homer’s Iliad. It then introduces students to key genres of the Greek poetic tradition, including lyric, elegy and drama. Classes will cover both detailed study of the set texts in their cultural context and linguistic/translation exercises designed to enhance students’ knowledge of Greek.

Pre-requisite(s): Before taking this module you must pass GK2003

Anti-requisite(s): You cannot take this module if you take GK2002

Learning and teaching methods of delivery: Weekly contact: Normally 4 classes.

Assessment pattern: 2-hour Written Examination = 50%, Coursework = 50% (essay, 20%, 3 class tests, 30%)

Re-assessment pattern: 3-hour Written Examination = 100%

This module provides a systematic introduction to the Latin language, concentrating on morphology, vocabulary, and basic syntax, and will enable students to read simplified Latin texts and translate sentences from Latin into English and vice versa. It is complemented by LT1002, and will thus give access to Latin at higher levels, but it may also be taken by students whose main interests lie in other areas, such as histories, foreign languages and English. It is also suitable for students who have taken some Latin previously, but not to Higher or A-Level, or who have taken Higher or A-Level Latin on reduced time.

Anti-requisite(s)
You cannot take this module if you take LT1003

The aims of this module, like LT1004, are to enhance understanding of Latin grammar and syntax, to increase vocabulary, to give a basic understanding of style, and to develop skills in translating and interpreting literary texts. A selection of classical Latin texts are studied, and student are encouraged and assisted to practice reading independently and in extenso. There will be tutorials to support this work and to help with the translation and appreciation of these and other Latin prose and verse authors.

Pre-requisite(s): Students must have higher or A-Level latin or equivalent

Anti-requisite(s): You cannot take this module if you take LT1001

Learning and teaching methods of delivery: Weekly contact: 2 - 4 classes.

Assessment pattern: 2-hour Written Examination = 60%, Coursework = 40% (2 literary criticisms, 20%, 2 class tests, 20%)
