Modules

DI1001 Introduction to Theology

Credits: 20.0  Semester: 1

Description: This module will address a variety of themes within Christian theology. Each theme will be approached with a view to its biblical roots and historical development, its critical reception and restatement in the modern period, and its significance for contemporary theological reflection. Themes covered will include: The problem of ‘God’ in the modern world; who is Jesus Christ and what difference does it make?; Trinity, Spirit and community; Diagnosis and cure – models for salvation; Beginnings and endings – the origin and destiny of the world. Through consideration of these themes students will also be introduced to some key names in the history of theology, such as Irenaeus, Athanasius, Augustine, Anselm, Aquinas, Luther, Calvin, Descartes, Kant, Schleiermacher, Feuerbach, Ritschl, Bultmann, and Barth.

Class Hour: 10.00 am

Teaching: Three lectures and one tutorial.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%

Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%
DI1002 The Church, Ritual and Politics

Credits: 20.0
Semester: 2
Description: This module explores ways in which Christianity is expressed and lived out today in Britain, Latin America and Africa with respect to worship and social and political engagement on the part of churches. The first part of the module will focus on liturgy, liberation theology and social reflection in Latin America and on dance, worship, healing, the world of spirits and inculturation in Africa. The second half will focus on worship, spirituality and the political and social involvement of the churches in contemporary Britain.

Class Hour: 10.00 am
Teaching: Four classes, including one tutorial.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%
Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%

DI1003 Ancient Israel : An Introduction

Credits: 20.0
Semester: 2
Description: This module is an introduction to the life, literature and religion of Ancient Israel. It will in particular consider the main literary types of the Old Testament literature, both in order to familiarise students with the traditions used in the Old Testament and to demonstrate how this literature was shaped by religious, social and historical factors. The class will also consider how it came to form the traditional canon of the Hebrew Bible.

Class Hour: 12.00 noon.
Teaching: Four classes.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%
Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%

DI1004 Hebrew 1 : Introduction to Hebrew Language

Credits: 20.0
Semester: 1
Description: This module teaches the basic grammar of biblical Hebrew and enables the student to proceed by the end of the module to reading some of the simpler parts of the Hebrew Bible. The course text is Davidson’s Introductory Hebrew Grammar (27th ed. by J D Martin, Edinburgh: T & T Clark, 1993), supplemented by a Computer Assisted Language Learning package based on the textbook.

Class Hour: 12.00 noon.
Teaching: Four lectures and one tutorial.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%
Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%

DI1005 New Testament Greek 1

Credits: 20.0
Semester: 2
Anti-requisites: GK1001-GK1004
Description: This module aims to give students a sufficient knowledge of the grammar and vocabulary of New Testament Greek to read sections of a prescribed New Testament text and to engage with technical literature in New Testament studies. The course textbook will be supplemented by materials prepared by the course tutor. The course concludes with reading sections of a prescribed New Testament text in Greek.

Class Hour: 4.00 pm
Teaching: Four lectures and one tutorial.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%
Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%
Divinity - 1000 Level modules

DI1006 Jesus and the Gospels

Credits: 20.0
Semester: 1

Description: The aim of this module is to introduce students to New Testament studies in general and to gospel studies in particular. The general introduction will include considering canonical and extra-canonical Christian writings, the historical-critical method and its implications for faith, and other recent approaches to New Testament interpretation, including social-scientific perspectives. Gospel studies will then be explored, including the question of how to find the historical Jesus from the various gospel accounts. Students will finally begin a detailed study of Mark’s gospel (from the English text), which will introduce a variety of dimensions of gospel study and of interpretative approaches.

Class Hour: 12.00 noon.

Teaching: Four classes each week, including one tutorial every fortnight.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%

Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%

DI1007 Church, Faith and State : Introduction to Church History

Credits: 20.0
Semester: 1

Description: This module provides an introduction to Church History, its scope and methods of study. The module follows three interrelated strands through the history of the church: the development of the church as an institution; the expression of its faith; and its relationship with the state.

Class Hour: 9.00 am

Teaching: Four classes, including fortnightly tutorial.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%

Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%

DI1009 Introduction to World Religions

Credits: 20.0
Semester: 2

Availability: 2000-01

Description: This module aims to provide a basic introduction to the major world religions apart from Christianity. It will consider methodologies for the comparative study of religions and will investigate how the religions studied (Judaism, Islam, Hinduism and Buddhism) function in contexts within and outwith Britain.

Class Hour: 4.00 pm

Teaching: Four lectures and a fortnightly tutorial.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%

Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%

DI1010 Great Figures, Great Interpreters

Credits: 20.0
Semester: 2

Availability: 2001-02

Description: The module will be of a deliberately inter-disciplinary nature. It will first consider the ways and extent to which certain themes/characters are developed within biblical narratives. Examples of the adoption and further development of these within the literary and artistic traditions of the West will then be considered. This task will be approached with a view to the ways in which Christian theology has both contributed to and learned from such imaginative products. After an initial week in which issues of method will be treated, one theme/character will be studied each week from a selection which may include the following: Joseph, Moses, Saul, David, Ruth, Job, Jonah, Jesus, Mary the mother of Jesus, Judas, the Prodigal Son, sin and redemption, guilt and forgiveness, covenant, promise, hope, glory, destiny, freedom. After the first week, each week of the module will include a lecture on the biblical text, a lecture on literary and theological treatments of the relevant theme/character, a tutorial discussion focused on a novel, film or some other artistic depiction of the theme/character, and a final plenary session drawing threads together. Each week will thus constitute a self-contained unit.

Class Hour: 5.00 pm

Teaching: Four classes each week, including one tutorial.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%

Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%
DI2001  Exile and Return in the Old Testament

Credits: 20.0
Semester: 1
Prerequisite: DI1003
Description: This module continues the study of the Old Testament in DI1003 and is an introduction to the literature and theology of the period of Israel’s history from exile to the consolidation of the canon. Prophecy, wisdom, psalms, apocalyptic writings, and the earliest forms of inner-biblical exegesis are studied. Attention is given to the final shaping of Israel’s sacred texts. The important events from exile to Qumran are illustrated in relation to the biblical literature.
Class Hour: 11.00 am
Teaching: Three to four lectures and one fortnightly tutorial.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%
Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%

DI2002  Hebrew 2

Credits: 20.0
Semester: 2
Prerequisite: DI1004
Description: This module aims to extend students’ skills in reading the Hebrew Bible and in the techniques of textual criticism and of exegesis. It consists of the reading and studying of a selection of Hebrew biblical texts representative of different literary genres such as prose writing and psalms.
Class Hour: 3.00 pm
Teaching: Three lectures and one tutorial.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%
Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%

DI2003  New Testament Church and Theology

Credits: 20.0
Semester: 2
Prerequisite: DI1006
Description: This module covers: (i) the history of the Church in the New Testament period, setting the church in its Jewish and Greco-Roman contexts; (ii) study of a Pauline letter; (iii) the theology of the New Testament, including the issue of unity and diversity, and with special attention to Christology.
Class Hour: 11.00 am
Teaching: Four lectures and fortnightly tutorials.

DI2004  Issues in Theology and Religion

Credits: 20.0
Semester: 2
Prerequisite: DI1001
Description: This module is in two parts. The first considers how Christian faith has been expressed and reformulated within the context of the 20th century. The second considers what have been some of the major challenges to Christian belief.
Class Hour: 2.00 pm
Teaching: Each fortnight: 6 lectures and one tutorial.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%
Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%
Divinity - 2000 & 3000 Level modules

DI2005 Christian Ethics
Credits: 20.0  Semester: 1
Description: This module allows students to consider the issues which arise when applying theological concepts to practical questions of moral behaviour. Students will explore the nature of theological ethics in relation to philosophical categories of ethics and to notions of biblical authority. Selected issues will then be examined in the areas of bioethics, personal relationships, economic justice and political power, and the integrity of creation. The task of the Christian community will be discussed in relation to each of these issues.
Class Hour: 2.00 pm
Teaching: 6 lectures and one tutorial each fortnight.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%
Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%

DI3011 Church History Special Topic

Credits: 30.0
Prerequisites: Either DI1007 and 11 or better in DI2006 or 11 or better in a second level module in Ancient, Mediaeval, Modern or Scottish History.

Description: This module allows students the possibility of pursuing a special topic in Church History by arrangement with the staff of the subject area and the Head of School. The topic will be chosen from one of the areas of specialisation of the teaching staff or of a visiting scholar. A written statement of teaching and assessment will be agreed with the student and lodged with the Dean of Faculty.

Class Hour: To be arranged.
Teaching: Two hour seminar.
Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%

DI3012 The Apostolic Fathers

Credits: 30.0
Availability: 2001-02
Prerequisite: Entry to an Honours Programme

Description: This module comprises a detailed study of the non-biblical late first- and second-century Christian texts which are important in themselves and which constitute basic sources for the church gradually emerging from its Jewish origins into the wider world. The material covered in this module is relevant both to New Testament studies and to Early Church History.

Class Hour: To be arranged.
Teaching: Two hour seminar.
Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%

DI3102 The Bible and Contemporary Issues

Credits: 30.0
Availability: 2001-02
Prerequisites: DI1006 and either DI2001 or DI2003

Description: This module will deal with the interpretation of the Bible (both testaments, but with emphasis on the New Testament) in a variety of contexts in the contemporary world, and will require students to reflect on the relationship between historical-critical study of the Bible and contemporary contextual interpretation of the Bible. The focus will be on the study of specific biblical texts and themes, studied with reference to both standard historical-critical work on them and examples of contemporary contextual interpretation.

Class Hour: 4.00 pm; day to be arranged.
Teaching: Two hour seminar.
Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%
DI3103  History of New Testament Interpretation

Credits: 30.0  Semester: 2
Availability: 2001-02
Prerequisite: 11 or better in DI2003

Description: This module seeks to introduce students to different methods of biblical interpretation used by selected major exegetes during the Christian era, with special attention to the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. The relationship between changing methods of interpretation and changing intellectual and philosophical currents will be of particular interest. After some analysis of exegetical methods in the patristic, mediaeval and Reformation periods, the rise of modern historical criticism will be considered in detail. Modern alternatives to the historical-critical approach - structuralism, rhetorical criticism, feminist interpretations, liberation hermeneutics - will also be studied.

Class Hour: To be arranged.
Teaching: Two hour seminar, occasional lectures.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 30%, 3 Hour Examination = 70%

DI3104  Johannine Literature and Theology : English Text

Credits: 30.0  Semester: 1
Availability: 2001-02
Prerequisite: 11 or better in DI1006
Anti-requisite: DI3105

Description: This course will focus on a study of the Gospel of John and the Johannine Letters. Selected texts (in English) will be studied in detail with a view towards developing a more comprehensive understanding of the socio-historical situation of Johannine Christianity and the main theological themes reflected in the writings. Issues to be considered will typically include: (i) the parting of the Johannine Christians from Judaism; (ii) the relationship of Johannine Christianity to the rest of early Christianity; (iii) the significance of the ascent/descent motif in Johannine Christology; (iv) the distinctive characteristics of Johannine ideas about salvation, sacraments, ethics and the nature of the Spirit/Paraclete. A shift in Johannine thought from the Gospel to the Letters will also be explored.

Class Hour: To be arranged.
Teaching: Two hour seminar and one lecture.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 30%, 3 Hour Examination = 70%

DI3114 The Historical Jesus

Credits: 30.0
Availability: 2000-01
Prerequisite: 11 or better in DI1006
Description: In view of recent debate over the historical Jesus, this course seeks to encourage students to determine a viable methodology for historical Jesus research and to develop a defensible, comprehensive hypothesis of the aims and life of this figure. The course will begin with an analysis of the state of the quest(s) for the historical Jesus, including the Cynic hypothesis. It will then examine critically the trial narratives, the Temple incident, the reasons for Jesus’ execution, Jesus’ attitude to the Jewish law and the preaching of the kingdom of God in an effort to determine the main features of his message. The major roles attributed to Jesus - prophet, teacher, charismatic healer, Messiah, Son of Man, Son of God - will also be considered critically, as well as selected events of Jesus’ life.
Class Hour: To be arranged.
Teaching: Two hour seminar and occasional lectures.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 30%, 3 Hour Examination = 70%

DI3115 New Testament Special Topic

Credits: 30.0
Availability: Either
Prerequisite: 11 or better in DI2003
Description: This module allows students the possibility of pursuing a special topic in the field of New Testament studies by arrangement with the staff of the subject area and the Head of School. The topic will be chosen from one of the areas of specialisation of teaching staff or of a visiting scholar. A written statement of teaching and assessment will be agreed with the student and lodged with the Dean of Faculty.

DI3119 The Sermon on the Mount : Greek Text

Credits: 30.0
Availability: 2000-01
Anti-requisites: DI3108, DI3109 and DI3120
Description: The text (in Greek) of the Sermon on the Mount in Matthew’s gospel will be translated and then analysed from a variety of perspectives. A detailed study of the nature of the Sermon traditions prior to Matthew will be undertaken, giving consideration to earlier forms of an inaugural sermon and to the authenticity and source of the traditions. Matthew’s own structure and emphases will be investigated, and these will be both related to the rest of Matthew’s gospel and contrasted with the emphases of the Sermon on the Plain in Luke. The meaning of the traditions will also be explored with regard to the ancient Mediterranean social and cultural context. Finally, an effort will be made to see how the Sermon has been used in the history of Christian thought and in modern Christian theology and ethics.
Class Hour: To be arranged.
Teaching: One 2 hour seminar and one tutorial.

DI3121  Moral Identity in New Testament Texts
Credits: 30.0  Semester: 2
Availability: 2001-02
Prerequisites: 11 or better in DI2003
Anti-requisites: DI3107
Description: This module is not interested in particular ethical prescriptions of New Testament texts. Instead, it assesses the way that New Testament texts promote the formation of moral identity in relation to the values and life of the wider Christian community. The module incorporates a wide range of New Testament texts, and focuses on the following topics in particular: eschatology, cruciform existence, pneumatology, corporate solidarity, moral distinctiveness, interaction with society. The module will provide tools for the theological assessment of textual data, with the expectation that students will emerge from the module better prepared to offer their own critique of contemporary social and religious influences on moral formation.

DI3122  The Parables of Jesus
Credits: 30.0  Semester: 1
Availability: 2000-01
Prerequisites: Grade 11 or better in DI2003
Description: This module will consider methodological issues pertinent to parable research and will focus on selected gospel parables as case studies in parable interpretation. In particular, the module will address the following issues: the definition of ‘parable’; the function of Jesus’ parables; historical trends in parable interpretation including recent interest in parables as language-events or linguistically-created ‘worlds’ that are epistemologically subversive or ‘existentially’ performative (e.g. the new hermeneutic and speech-act theoreticians); changes in ‘Sitz im Leben’ and parable multivalence. In particular, recent advances in understanding the socio-economic context of Jesus’ day allow Jesus’ parables to be heard in fresh ways and the module will capitalise on those advances.

Credits: 30.0
Availability: 2000-01
Prerequisite: 11 or better in DI2001 or DI2003
Anti-requisite: DI3213
Description: This module is a survey of the Dead Sea Scrolls and related manuscript finds from the Judean Desert. The class will read and discuss the major sectarian texts from Qumran with a view toward understanding their place in Second Temple Judaism. Attention will also be given to the archaeological context of the Qumran discoveries, as well as to the revolutionary importance of the scrolls for our understanding of the Hebrew Bible and the New Testament. Related manuscript discoveries will also be studied, including the Samaria Papyri, the scrolls from Masada, and the letters of Bar Kochba. All texts will be read in English translation. A public discussion group for this module will be created on the Internet, and the students and instructor will use electronic mail as part of the course. Training sessions on the use of the Internet will be provided.

DI3216 The Old Testament Pseudepigrapha

Credits: 30.0
Availability: 2001-02
Prerequisite: 11 or better in DI2001 or DI2003
Description: This module examines the Old Testament Pseudepigrapha, a loose collection of ancient Bible-like writings that were excluded from the canons of both normative Judaism and Christianity. The emphasis will be textual (unlike the thematic approach of DI3106), and we shall explore the reasons for the rejection of these documents by the major canons, the problem of the mixed Jewish and Christian strata in the texts, their intertextual connections with biblical literature, and their influence after antiquity. All texts will be read in English translation. A public discussion group for this module will be created on the Internet, and the students and instructor will use electronic mail as part of the course. Training sessions on the use of the Internet will be provided. The topic for 2001-02 will be pseudepigraphal texts alleged to have been composed in Hebrew or Aramaic.

DI3223 Studies in the Psalms

Credits: 30.0
Availability: 2000-01
Prerequisite: 11 or better in DI2001
Anti-requisite: DI3206
Description: This module aims to deepen the student’s knowledge of the cultic literature of Ancient Israel and to set it in the context of the Ancient Near East; to draw conclusions for Israel’s worship by the study of different genres within the Book of Psalms (Communal lament, Individual lament, Hymn, Song of Thanksgiving, Prayer, Didactic song); and to enable the student to see how this literature dovetails with prophetic and wisdom movements in Israel. The module will survey the Book of Psalms, take note of relevant Ancient Near Eastern cultic literature, analyse the structure of the different genres, and select samples of these for detailed exegesis.

<td>Description:</td>
<td>This module will study some of the most important and exciting developments within the history of Christian ethics. It will consider how major thinkers have understood and applied the teaching of Jesus Christ to practical concerns. Students will be introduced to The Confessions of St Augustine and will have the opportunity to explore for themselves what he says about marriage, lying, virginity, etc. They will learn about the influence that the monasteries exerted over centuries of Christian morality, the doomed romance between Abelard and Heloise and its effect upon their understanding of virtue and vice, and they will read what Luther and Calvin say, respectively, about Christian social action and ethics as an attitude of gratitude towards God. The module will also study topics from the modern era, notably John Wesley’s social ethics and Kierkegaard’s treatment of the biblical story of Abraham’s near sacrifice of Isaac.</td>

DI3319 Monarchy, church and state
Credits: 30.0  Semester: 1
Availability: 2000-01
Description: This module explores the relationship between church and state in the United Kingdom. There is a particular emphasis on the spiritual role and ecclesiastical function of the monarch, as understood biblically, historically and in contemporary terms. In the light of current constitutional change and debate about the future role of monarchy, the module looks at various models of church state relations.

DI3412 The Thought of Søren Kierkegaard
Credits: 30.0  Semester: 2
Availability: 2000-01
Prerequisites: Admission to Honours in Divinity, Theological Studies or Philosophy
Description: Kierkegaard is the first major thinker to react as a Christian to modernity while at the same time comprehending the depth of the challenge which the Enlightenment represents to Christianity. His authorship is peculiarly fascinating because it covers such a breadth of interests. He has been a seminal figure for later theology and philosophy. This is a text-based course, in which we shall read a range of major texts which are pertinent to a theological context. I am writing a book on Kierkegaard, intended as an introduction for theologians and students will be able to give in-put in relation to this text!

DI3416 The Theology of Karl Barth
Credits: 30.0  Semester: 1
Availability: 2000-01
Prerequisites: 11 or better in DI2004, and DI3430
Description: The purposes of this module are: Firstly, to explore the structure of Barth’s systematic theology, through the study of key texts. Secondly, to foster critical response to Barth’s work, and that of his commentators. Thirdly, to heighten appreciation of Barth’s significance in the history of modern theology, and his continuing importance for contemporary theological discussion. This module provides an opportunity for students to undertake a detailed study of aspects of the theology of Karl Barth. Students will be introduced to the development and content of Barth’s theology through the study of texts in translation, especially portions of the Church Dogmatics. Attention will also be given to key commentators on Barth’s work.

DI3419 Salvation in Christian Reflection

Credits: 30.0
Semester: 2
Availability: 2000-01
Prerequisites: DI1001 and either DI2004 or DI2005, and DI3430
Description: This module will explore the understandings of salvation which have shaped the Christian tradition. Consideration will be given to the extent to which western interpretations of the nature of God, law and sin have led to distortive soteriological interpretations of the Biblical material – interpretations whose impact has not always been constructive either at the individual or social levels. In the light of extensive recent Biblical and theological research, we shall reconsider what theologians are warranted in affirming with respect to this fundamental doctrine which lies at the heart of the Christian faith.

DI3421 The Body and Society

Credits: 30.0
Semester: 1
Availability: 2001-02
Prerequisite: DI3430
Description: This module explores current concern with ‘the body’ in the light of the complex Christian metaphor of the body. Areas covered include pornography, domestic violence, eating disorders and the impact of consumer capitalism, which are studied in both sociological and theological discussion.

Credits: 30.0
Semester: 2
Availability: 2000-01
Prerequisites: DI1001, DI2004 and DI3430
Description: This module will explore the nature of the human capacity for imagination and its significance within common human, religious and Christian theological contexts. This will be achieved both through theoretical and applied approaches to the theme. Weekly lectures will consider the ways and places in which imagination functions in such distinctively human phenomena as knowledge, faith, hope, joy, morality, desire and understanding. In addition we may consider such themes as revelation and imagination, creation and creativity, incarnation and artistic imagination, inspiration and Spirit, and ritual, symbolism and sacrament. Weekly seminars will attend to a selection of products of human imagining (novels, plays, poetry, examples of visual art and music) with a view to exploring the theological questions raised by and expressed in them.

Class Hour: To be arranged.
Teaching: One-and-a-half hour lecture and one-and-a-half hour seminar.

DI3427  Modern Christology

Credits: 30.0
Semester: 2
Availability: 2001-02
Prerequisites: 11 or better in DI2004 and DI3430
Description: In this module, consideration will be given to christological claims which have long been considered definitive of the Christian faith. This will take place in a context of dialogue with a number of wider theological, philosophical, ethical and contextual challenges and concerns raised by modern and contemporary writers. The module will begin by re-examining the homoousion debate articulating the question as to how far Christians are justified in continuing to reiterate the central christological affirmations of the Nicene creed. This will lead to a distillation of the key challenges to christological orthodoxy facilitating examination of these in greater depth together with other doctrinal issues integral to christological affirmation - most notably those associated with the ‘three days’ (Good Friday, Holy Saturday and Easter Sunday) and the ascension. Integral to the course will be analysis of key methodological and hermeneutical issues on the one hand together with consideration of the social ramifications of christological affirmations on the other.

DI3429  The Shaping of Orthodoxy

Credits: 30.0
Semester: 2
Availability: 2000-01
Prerequisites: DI1001, DI2004 and DI3430
Description: This module will trace selected strands in the development of classical Christian orthodoxy in the first five centuries, attending primarily to themes in christology, pneumatology, the doctrine of God, and soteriology. It will do this through the study of texts (in translation) in seminars and in more wide ranging lectures and essay assignments.
Class Hour: To be arranged.
Teaching: One-and-a-half hour lecture, One-and-a-half hour seminar.
Di3430  Theological explorations: texts, issues and applications

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 30%, 3 Hour Examination = 70%

Credits: 30.0  Semester: 1

Prerequisites: Di1001, Di1002, and 11 or better in Di2004 or Di2005

Anti-requisite: Di3417

Description: This module will consider a range of issues of belief and practice which have been central to and have shaped the Christian theological tradition over the past two millennia. It will do this through the study of texts in seminars, through lectures, and through private study and written assignments. Issues selected for study will be considered both from a historical perspective, and with a view to contemporary criticisms and reformulations of them.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: One hour lecture, Two hour seminar.

Di3499  Feminist Theory

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 30%, 3 Hour Examination = 70%

Credits: 30.0  Semester: 1

Prerequisite: Entry to Honours in one or more of the following Schools: Art History, Divinity, English, Greek, Latin & Ancient History, History, Modern Languages, Philosophical & Anthropological Studies, Psychology, Social Sciences (Economics, International Relations).

Description: We shall commence by reading Carol Gilligan and Nancy Chodorow, who have translated British object relations (psychoanalytic) theory into a feminist context and who consider questions of inter-personal relations, self-identity and ethics. Taking this material, we shall consider how it has been utilised by women working in political theory: Seyla Benhabib, Jane Flax and Iris Young. We shall look at philosophical questions to do with the nature of the self in relation to others in Caroline Whitbeck’s and Eleanor Haney’s work and ask after the import of the discussion of human ‘attending’ in Iris Murdoch and Martha Nussbaum. Finally, we shall move to a consideration of the work of women coming out of a French Lacanian and post-structuralist context, looking at some shorter texts of Luce Irigaray, Julia Kristeva and Hélène Cixous.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: One-and-a-half hour lecture plus one-and-a-quarter hour seminar.
