Part-time Evening Degree Programme

Admission to the Part-time Evening Degree programme will normally be restricted to suitably qualified adults over the age of 21. The normal requirements for entry to undergraduate degree programmes will be relaxed for this programme. Applicants must, however, demonstrate that they are capable of profiting from, and succeeding in, a demanding academic environment.

Students who enrol for the maximum possible number of modules can accumulate 40 credits per semester or 80 credits per academic year. The total number of credits required for the award of the General M.A. Degree is 360, so it is possible to complete the requirements for the Degree in a minimum of four and a half years.

This minimum period may be reduced if:

i. credit is awarded for qualifications achieved prior to enrolment on the Programme.
ii. students decide to transfer from part-time to full-time status. Requests for such a transfer must be made to the Adviser of Studies, Faculty of Arts, and should be made in good time in advance of the session for which full-time status is sought.

In order to be permitted to continue with their studies, part-time students must have gained:

i. 80 credits after 6 semesters of study as a matriculated student.
ii. 160 credits after 10 semesters of study as a matriculated student.
iii. the requirements for the General Degree after 18 semesters of study as a matriculated student.

STUDY SKILLS

All entrants will be expected to attend an initial study skills course which will comprise two evenings per week for four weeks. The purpose of the course is to introduce people to the skills needed for success in studying at undergraduate level, and will include study techniques, note taking, library use, essay and report writing, presentations, and a basic introduction to the use of computers.

Modules

AH1901 Western Art from Renaissance to Baroque

Credits: 20.0  Semester: 1
Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme
Anti-requisites: AH1001, AH1003
Description: The module will provide a survey of western European art from the late Middle Ages to the end of the eighteenth century. Each lecture will focus on a particular work of art or monument, chosen to illustrate not only the achievement of great individual artists (including Michelangelo, Caravaggio, Rembrandt), but also different media (painting, sculpture, architecture, print-making). Attention will also be paid to different art-historical approaches to the art of the Renaissance and Baroque periods.

Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme
Anti-requisites: AS1001 or AS1002 or PH1011 or PH1012
Description: This module presents a descriptive, non-mathematical account of the physical universe. It is divided into two components: concepts in astronomy, dealing with our understandings of the properties and ages of planets, stars, galaxies, and their distributions in space, cosmology and the origin of the Universe; and concepts in physics, dealing with our understandings of the nature of light and matter, the structure of atoms, fundamental particles and their links to cosmology.
Teaching: One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures and/or seminars
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%
Re-Assessment: Examination = 100%

BL1901 Human Biology
Credits: 20.0  Semester: 1
Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme
Anti-requisite: BL1004
Description: Lectures and seminars provide an introduction to the varied fields of study that relate to human biology. Lectures cover basic human structure (anatomy) and human function (physiology) and the molecular and cellular building blocks that make up the body. Lectures may also cover topics such as cloning, genetics, brain function, reproduction, digestion, disease and immunity.
Teaching: One 2 1/2 hour session a week: lectures and/or seminars
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, Class Tests = 50%
Re-Assessment: Examination (written or oral) = 100%
BL2901 Environmental Biology
Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2
Prerequisite: BL1901 is recommended
Description: Lectures and seminars provide an introduction to environmental and evolutionary topics. Topics include: Basic evolutionary theory, and an introduction to the evolution of diversity; Animal and plant design, and current patterns of plant and animal diversity; Global environments and the biotic challenges they represent. How plants and animals adapt to their environments; Current and future environmental problems.
Teaching: One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures and seminars
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, Class Test = 50%
Re-Assessment: Examination (written or oral) = 100%

CL1901 Classical Athens (5th and 4th century BCE)
Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1
Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme
Description: This module will provide an introduction to Ancient Greece, with special emphasis on Classical Athens from the growth of democracy early in the fifth century to the beginning of the Hellenistic period following the death of Alexander the Great in 323 BCE. The fifth century was a time of great prosperity in Athens, but also of great challenge: while the period produced monumental achievements in architecture and literature, the century also opened and closed with wars - in the first instance, against a foreign enemy, in the second, against a former ally. The fourth century was a time of struggle for Athens as the city attempted to regain former glory and to ward off threats from the north. Organised chronologically, the lectures will examine the history, culture, literature and art of this important period of antiquity, with tutorials designed to provide additional experience of the Greek world through the handling of both primary and secondary sources.
Teaching: One 2 1/2 hour session a week: lectures and tutorials
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%
Re-Assessment: Two Hour Examination = 100%

CL2901 Rome in Transition (1st century BCE to 1st century CE)
Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2
Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme
Anti-requisite: AN1002
Description: This module will offer an introduction to one of the most interesting and important periods of Roman history, the transition from Republic to Empire. The demise of the Republic in the first century BCE and the role of individuals such as Pompey the Great, Cicero and Julius Caesar in that period will be examined, as will the rise of imperial power under Augustus and the Julio-Claudians. The concomitant changes in art, literature and society will also be considered. Tutorials will highlight important issues raised in the lectures, with an emphasis on the primary sources.
Teaching: One 2 1/2 hour session a week: lectures and tutorials
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%
Re-Assessment: Two Hour Examination = 100%

DI1902 Introduction to Theology
Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1
Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme
Description: The extent of religion’s influence on the contemporary world is immense but also problematic. This module begins by considering the challenges posed by the diversity of religious claims asking both about how Christian claims can be justified and also how such claims might be assessed or critiqued. We shall then consider traditional and contemporary arguments for and also against the existence of God before going on to consider the key theological affirmations at the heart of Christian thought. Topics covered in this part will include the doctrines of God, revelation, Christology and reconciliation as also issues bearing more generally on God’s relationship with the world.
Teaching: One 2 1/2 hour session a week: lectures, tutorials and project work
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%
Re-Assessment: Examination = 100%

<td>Description:</td>
<td>This module builds on the work of EN1901 to give extended and deeper understanding of major literary texts, in drama, verse and prose, from the sixteenth century to the mid-twentieth century. The focus of the module is on comedy and comic forms of writing. This will include an introduction to theories of comedy and study of techniques of humorous writing. Since comedy is often used to comment on and criticise society, the relationship between writers and texts and the historical and social conditions of their times will also be a theme of the module, with particular reference to gender issues. The authors to be studied include Shakespeare, Jonson, Sheridan, Shaw, Beckett, Pope, Byron, Austen, Woolf and Spark.</td>

EN3902 Approaches to Fiction
Credits: 30.0  Semester: Whole year
Prerequisites: EN1901, EN2901
Anti-requisites: Any full-time module in English
Description: This module covers aspects of the development of English prose fiction in the last three hundred years. Selected novels will be studied in order to show the variety of narrative styles, the predominant themes and the contribution of major authors to the tradition of English fiction. The module will build on the study of prose fiction in the lower level Evening Degree modules EN1901 and EN2901 to provide more advanced and concentrated attention to the major form of modern literature in English.
Class Hour: 6.30 pm
Teaching: The module will be taught in a series of fortnightly seminars, usually consisting of an introductory lecture or formal presentation by a teacher from the School of English followed by group discussion, in which students will be expected to participate. There will be eight meetings in each semester. The meetings will begin at 6.30 pm and last until 9.15 pm.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%

EN3903 The English Poetic Tradition
Credits: 30.0  Semester: Whole year
Prerequisites: EN1901, EN2901
Anti-requisites: Any full-time module in English
Description: This module covers aspects of the English poetic tradition from Chaucer to the twentieth century. The emphasis will be on the study of poems and groups of poems, linked by genre, theme or period, rather than the study of single authors, and will build on the study of poetry in the lower level Evening Degree modules EN1901 and EN2901.
Class Hour: 6.30 pm
Teaching: The module will be taught in a series of fortnightly seminars, usually consisting of an introductory lecture or formal presentation by a member of the School followed by group discussion, in which students will be expected to participate. There will be typically eight meetings in each semester, each lasting from 6.30 pm to 9.15 pm.

IS1901 Information Technology I
Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1
Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme
Anti-requisites: IS1001, IS1003, IS2001, IS3001
Description: The module consists of two streams – a practical stream featuring common application software used for web authoring and word processing, and a conceptual stream focusing on selected topics in Information and Communications Technologies from technical, social, economic and historical perspectives. The conceptual stream draws from topics such as the Internet, the World Wide Web, Software Risks, Code Cracking, the Modern Desktop Computer, and e-commerce. Learning resources include software, books, web sites, class notes and videos.
No more than 50% of the material in this module will involve working directly with software, to ensure that the module is amenable to home study.
Teaching: One 2 _ hour session a week: lectures, tutorials, seminars, presentations and supervised practicals, home study, essays and practical work.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%
Re-Assessment: Examination (practical and/or oral) = 100%

IS2901 Information Technology II
Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2
Prerequisite: IS1901 or Prior Accreditation of Learning or by special permission of the School
Description: We are increasingly reliant on Internet-based services for a variety of routine tasks. For example, searching- Google, e-commerce- Amazon, e-government- Fife Council, travel- Network Rail timetable, management of educational processes – MMS. This new second level module provides insight into the technologies and concepts that are used in the design, construction and deployment of such services. The main practical focus will be on the design and use of databases and advanced authoring, leading to an understanding of their combined use in the production of dynamic websites. This will be complemented by a conceptual stream drawn from areas within Electronic Commerce.
No more than 50% of the material in this module will involve working directly with software, to ensure that the module is amenable to home study.

MO2901 Europe & the USA in the 20th Century
Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1
Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme
Anti-requisites: MO1003, MO1004
Description: This survey of twentieth century history focuses on Europe, but includes relations and involvement with the USA. It is divided into three major themes: the First World War, the Second World War and The Cold War. Students will be assessed in each of these areas. Each week’s class – in the form of a lecture followed by a small group tutorial – focuses on a specific topic such as the Russian Revolution, Nazi foreign policy or The Sixties. Issues which run through the course as a whole include nationalism, the changing nature of warfare, individuals in history and the role of the masses. Students will be introduced to the events of this period, to historical debate about these events and to the use of primary sources in historical analysis.
Teaching: One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures and seminars
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%
Re-Assessment: Examination = 100%
MO3901 Nazi Germany, 1933-1945
Credits: 30.0 Semester: 1
Prerequisites: SC1901 and MO2901
Description: This module will examine the nature of the Nazi regime in Germany and analyse its impact on German society from the appointment of Hitler as Chancellor in January 1933 to the collapse of the Third Reich with defeat in the Second World War. Within a broadly chronological framework, the topics to be covered include the nature and exercise of Nazi authority, the creation and implications of the racial state, Nazi culture, Germany in war, resistance and conformity, and the legacy of Nazism. Each class will be a group discussion based on preparatory reading of primary and secondary works.
Teaching: one 2 3/4 hour seminar per week
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 60%, 2 Hour Examination = 40%

PS1901 Psychology in Everyday Life 1
Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1
Prerequisite: Entry to Part-time Evening Degree Programme
Anti-requisites: PS1001 and PS1002
Description: This module is designed to introduce the principles of key areas of psychology (perception, cognition, individual differences and physiological). A major component of the course will involve the underlying psychological theory and mechanisms but these will be illustrated through issues and applications from everyday life. Additionally, methods of scientific assessment of theory and measurement of psychological effects will be stressed through practical sessions. It will be assumed that entrants have no previous knowledge of psychology.
Teaching: one 2 1/2 hour session per week: lectures and practicals
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%
Re-Assessment: Written Assessment = 100%

PS2901 Psychology in Everyday Life 2
Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2
Prerequisite: PS1901
Anti-requisites: PS2001 and PS2002
Description: This module uses PS1901 as a foundation for a more advanced treatment of key areas of psychology (abnormal and developmental). The aim is to develop a detailed appreciation of how psychological theory and practice impact on everyday life. The module will therefore involve the underlying psychological theory and mechanisms presented in the light of applications to everyday life. Additionally, methods of scientific assessment of theory and measurement of psychological effects will be stressed through practical sessions.
Teaching: one 2 1/2 hour session per week: lectures and practicals
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%
Re-Assessment: Written Assessment = 100%

PS3901 Neuropsychology
Credits: 30.0 Semester: 2
Prerequisite: PS2901
Anti-requisites: PS3009
Description: This module aims to give insight into various aspects of clinical Neuropsychology such as memory, attention, visual perception, planning and executive functioning, and how these aspects are related to the underlying neural structures. The course also looks at various neuropsychological deficits, disorders and dysfunctions along with therapeutic approaches to treating the cognitive and emotional effects of these disorders. There will be practical classes in which students gain experience of the issues covered in the module.
Teaching: one 3 hour session per week: lectures and practicals
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%
PY1901 Morality & Human Nature

Credits: 20.0  Semester: 1
Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme
Anti-requisites: LM1003, MP1001, PY1103
Description: This module will examine a number of different perspectives on human nature and will consider a range of moral questions in light of these perspectives. The overarching theme of the course will be to investigate the extent to which what people consider to be right or wrong is affected by what they consider to be natural for humans or part of human nature. Along the way we will consider various other questions such as what it means to say all people are created equal, whether people are inherently bad or good, whether society has a redemptive or corrupting effect on humans, and whether there is or can be any such thing as moral progress. These issues will be approached through consideration of a range of religious, philosophical and scientific traditions and thinkers as well as direct discussion of contemporary moral questions.

Teaching: One 2 1/2 hour session a week: lectures and tutorials
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%
Re-Assessment: Examination = 100%

PY2901 History of Modern Philosophy from Hobbes to Kant

Credits: 20.0  Semester: 2
Prerequisite: PY1901
Description: This module aims to develop critical understanding of the classical period of metaphysics, epistemology and moral theory. The module will be an introduction to the thought of Hobbes, Descartes, Locke, Berkeley, Hume and Kant, through the study of selected writings. Specific attention will be paid to these philosophers’ views of knowledge, thought, personal identity, freedom and the basis of society and morality. Such study remains an indispensable introduction to contemporary philosophy.

Teaching: One 2 1/2 hour session a week: lectures and tutorials
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%
Re-Assessment: Examination = 100%

SC1901 Mediaeval Scotland

Credits: 20.0  Semester: 2
Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme
Anti-requisite: SC1001
Description: This module offers a view of the emergence and development of Scotland during the mediaeval period, from the rule of the Canmore dynasty until the reign of James IV. Particular emphasis is placed on the themes of national identity, tensions between central government and outlying areas, the development and influence of the Scottish Church and the complex issues of warfare and diplomacy with England and contemporary European powers.

Teaching: One 2 1/2 hour session a week: lectures and seminars
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%
Re-Assessment: Examination = 100%

SC3901 Castles and Lordship, 1100 - 1550

Credits: 30.0  Semester: 2
Prerequisites: SC1901 and MO2901
Description: This module examines the evolution of the castle in Scotland from the early earth and timber structures to the great royal fortresses and baronial tower houses, examining their central role in the exercise of magnate power in medieval Scotland. Defensive strongholds in times of strife, national and domestic, the castle was also, perhaps more importantly, a physical manifestation of status, power and prestige for the families who owned them. Some attention will be given to the architecture and uses of the castle, including choice of situation, chief or lesser residences, garrison centres etc., although this course will be concerned, primarily, with the significance of the various strongholds in the hands of influential families and the extent to which their local or national standing was enhanced by the acquisition or construction of such castles.

Teaching: one 2 3/4 hour seminar per week
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 60%, 2 Hour Examination = 40%
