Comparative Literature (CO) Modules

CO1001 The Nineteenth-Century Novel
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Planned timetable:	1.00 pm
This module introduces students to the study of Comparative Literature through nineteenth-century novels from France, Germany, Italy, Russia, Spain, the UK and the USA. All the texts will be read in translation, though students with a reading knowledge of the target language(s) will be encouraged to read the original version(s). The aim of the module is to introduce students to a representative and canonical range of fictional works, with focus on one literary genre -- the novel -- and one over-arching theme. The theme will change depending on staff availability, but for 2012-13 and the immediate future will be 'The Novel of Adultery'. Lecturers, seminar leaders and secondary criticism will all model a variety of comparative approaches for students and promote discussion of the discipline.
Programme module type:	Compulsory for Comparative Literature. Either CO1001 or EN1003 is a compulsory for English.
Required for:	CO2001
Learning and teaching methods and delivery:	Weekly contact: 3 lectures, 1 seminar, 1 surgery hour.

CO1002 Drama in the Twentieth and Twenty-first Centuries
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Planned timetable:	1.00 pm
This module introduces students to the study of Comparative Literature through plays written in the 20th and 21st century from France, Germany, Italy, Russia, Spain, the UK and the USA. All the texts will be read in translation though students with a reading knowledge of the target language(s) will be encouraged to read the original version(s). The aim of the module is to introduce students to a representative and canonical range of fictional works, with focus on one literary genre -- drama -- and one over-arching theme. The theme will change depending on staff availability, but for 2012-13 and the immediate future will be 'Staging the Political'. Lecturers, seminar leaders and secondary criticism will all model a variety of comparative approaches for students and promote discussion of the discipline and potential directions for further study at sub-honours and honours degree level.
Programme module type:	Compulsory for Comparative Literature. Either CO1002 or EN1004 is a compulsory for English.

CO2001 Good and Evil
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	1
Planned timetable:	1.00 pm
This module will provide students with the opportunity to develop skills acquired at Level 1 of the comparative literature core programme, whilst introducing them to a range of texts in which the theme of 'Good &amp; Evil' will be explored. This theme will provide a broad platform to investigate issues of morality and identity, and relationships between literature, religion, and psychology. Students will be reading texts originally written in a range of languages (Arabic, English, French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish), of various genres (e.g. novels, short stories, essays, letters, poetry), written between the thirteenth and the twenty-first century. They will be encouraged to reflect on the cultural, intellectual and philosophical paradigms influencing the evolution of notions of good and evil, and on the historical circumstances which determined them. These will in turn form the basis of the comparative analysis of the different ways in which Good and Evil are perceived and represented in the texts considered. Linguistic and stylistic features, structural and genre-related aspects, and issues raised by translation will form an integral part of the module.

CO2002 Journeys
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	2
Planned timetable:	1.00 pm
This module will provide students with the opportunity to develop skills acquired at Level 1 of the comparative literature programme, whilst introducing them to a range of texts -- both canonical and non-canonical -- offering variants on the theme of 'Journeys'. As a topos which lends itself to several layers of interpretation, 'Journeys' will provide a platform for students to explore concepts such as (inter-cultural) identity, alterities, encounters, in 'real' as well as imaginary travels or journeys. Students will be reading texts originally written in a range of languages (English, French, Spanish, German, Russian and Italian), of various genres (e.g. novel, diary, letters, essay, poetry), written between the 13th and the 21st century, and will be encouraged to reflect on the similarities and differences between the narrative treatment of journeys to specific geographic locations. As with all comparative modules, the importance of form, and the role of translation in its linguistic and cultural sense, will remain at the centre of all discussions.

German (GM) Modules

GM1001 First Level German A 1
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Planned timetable:	3.00 pm
The module, which lays the foundation for study of German language and literature at university level, is designed for students of German as a foreign language. Two weekly language classes and self-access computer-assisted language practice aim to develop speaking, reading and writing skills and grammatical competence, using materials which cover aspects of contemporary German society and culture. Weekly lectures and seminars will give students an introduction to German studies. They will familiarise students with techniques of understanding and analysing a variety of texts - narrative, poetic and historical - as well as linguistic patterns. Please note that this module is not designed for native or heritage speakers of German.

Modern Languages - 1000 & 2000 Level 2012/13 - October 2012

RU2001 Intermediate Russian Language 1
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	1
Planned timetable:	10.00 am plus 1 oral hour to be arranged.
Following on from RU1001 and RU1002, this module represents the least intensive of the three second-level Russian tracks. The most important elements of Russian grammar given in the first year are reinforced in this course, and further points of grammar and syntax are taught. There are regular exercises of translation both from and into Russian. Spoken Russian is improved through small-group oral tuition classes with a native language instructor.
Programme module type:	Optional for Three-Subject Degrees involving Russian, Economics with Russian, Mathematics with Russian
Pre-requisite(s):	RU1002	Anti-requisite(s):	RU2002, RU2004
Required for:	RU2002, RU2004
Learning and teaching methods and delivery:	Weekly contact: 3 classes plus 1 oral hour.

RU2002 Intermediate Russian Language 2
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	2
Planned timetable:	10.00 am plus 1 oral hour to be arranged.
The module continues the work provided in RU2001 and provides a comprehensive and thorough grounding in the Russian language, enough to be able to read all normal Russian texts with the aid of a dictionary and to be able to speak the language at an intermediate level. The finer points of grammar and syntax are taught, and these, together with new vocabulary, are reinforced and tested through regular translation exercises from and into Russian and short written tests. Spoken Russian is improved through small-group oral tuition classes with a native language instructor.

Spanish (SP) Modules

SP1001 Spanish Language and Texts 1
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2012/3
Availability restrictions:	Only available to First Year students.
Planned timetable:	12.00 noon
The language part of the module promotes the four skills of reading, writing, listening and speaking. There is formal grammar instruction and a programme of participative classroom activities, grammar instruction and CALL work. The texts component is designed to provide language in context and to widen the students experience of Spanish and Spanish American life and culture through selected writing and film. The reading list is available on line as from the preceding month of May.
Programme module type:	Either (SP1001 and SP1002) or (SP1003 and SP1004) are compulsory for Spanish
Pre-requisite(s):	Higher/A-Level Spanish or equivalent.
Anti-requisite(s):	SP1003	Required for:	SP1002
Learning and teaching methods and delivery:	Weekly contact: 1 lecture, 1 seminar, 2 language classes and 1 surgery hour.

SP1002 Spanish Language and Texts 2
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Planned timetable:	12.00 noon
This module advances the 4 skills developed in SP1001. A language course book introduces a higher level of linguistic difficulty through a series of exercises, participative classwork, grammar instruction and CALL work. The literary texts represent twenty-first-century and earlier Spanish, and Spanish American writing, chosen for linguistic enrichment and cultural significance. The reading list is available on line as from the preceding month of May. The module aims at a level of attainment sufficient to enable the student to enter confidently the 2000-level modules.
Programme module type:	Either (SP1001 and SP1002) or (SP1003 and SP1004) are compulsory for Spanish
Pre-requisite(s):	SP1001	Required for:	SP2001, SP2003
Learning and teaching methods and delivery:	Weekly contact: 1 lecture, 1 seminar, 2 language classes and 1 surgery hour.

Modern Languages - 1000 & 2000 Level 2012/13 - October 2012

SP1003 Spanish for Beginners 1
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Planned timetable:	2.00 pm or, if timetable clash, 3.00 pm.
The objective is to initiate Spanish language acquisition with a firm grounding in the syntax, morphology and vocabulary of the language. The skills developed are accuracy and fluency in reading, writing, listening and speaking. In classes, students are taught and practise new structures. In the computer classroom these skills are further enhanced through the individual use of a self-access multimedia CALL program and video materials.
Programme module type:	Either (SP1003 and SP1004) or (SP1001 and SP1002) are compulsory for Spanish
Anti-requisite(s):	Speaker of Spanish, a pass at Higher, A-Level or equivalent
Required for:	SP1004
Learning and teaching methods and delivery:	Weekly contact: 3 language classes, as well as audio-visual sessions, and self-access CALL work.
	Scheduled learning: 44 hours		Guided independent study: 156 hours

SP1004 Spanish for Beginners 2
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Planned timetable:	2.00 pm or, if timetable clash, 3.00 pm.
There are three classes of language instruction per week to continue language initiation and a self-access CALL program and video materials to consolidate language acquisition and instil accuracy of expression. There are also nine class hours and six seminars devoted to Hispanic film and literature, chosen for their linguistic and cultural interest. Parallel texts and English sub-titled films are used initially, and the student is helped with annotated texts and computer glossary. Vocabulary and familiarisation with aspects of the Hispanic world are enhanced. A sound basis in the grammar of Spanish in this module facilitates entry into 2000 level modules in Spanish. Please note that this module is not designed for native or heritage speakers of Spanish.

SP1030 Introduction to Modern Latin America
SCOTCAT Credits:	10	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Planned timetable:	1.00 pm Mon and Fri.
This module offers an introduction to modern Latin American history. Starting with the Wars of Independence (1804-1825), it traces the political history of Spanish America, Brazil and Haiti up to the present. Adopting a thematic approach, within a continental-based narrative, this module focuses on the early national period, the neocolonial period, the age of extremes and the age of neoliberalism. Recent trends towards democratisation within a context of globalisation will also be addressed. Whilst the module will stress the common themes between countries as far apart as Mexico and Argentina, it will nonetheless highlight specific national contexts. Key events such as the Mexican-American war, the Mexican Revolution, the Chaco War, the Cuban Revolution and Pinochet's coup of 1973 will all be studied.
Programme module type:	Available to students on any degree programme.
Pre-requisite(s):	Knowledge of the Spanish language is NOT required.
Learning and teaching methods and delivery:	Weekly contact: 2 lectures and 1 surgery hour.

SP2005 Spanish Language and Texts: ex-Beginners
SCOTCAT Credits:	30	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	1
Planned timetable:	11.00 am
The module is designed for ex-Beginners in Spanish who wish to move into mainstream studies of language and literature. The title of the language programme, Revise and Consolidate, explains its goal: revision and progressively deeper understanding of the language, intensive practice in oral, spoken and written skills. In Texts, study is planned so that thorough vocabulary acquisition, analysis of syntax and understanding of extended texts can be realistically achieved. This module not only opens the way to Spanish Honours for ex-Beginners but could be useful for students who wish to study other subjects in Spain at a later date. The reading list is available online as from the preceding month of May.
