This module is for students who, having taken Latin in both of their first two years, but only begun Greek in their second year with GK1001 and GK1002, are entering Honours Classics or joint Honours Greek in their third year. It consists of 4000-level analysis and essay work together with consolidation of the student’s prior knowledge of the Greek language, practice in translation skills, and training in techniques of literary analysis. The module will concentrate on the study of selected genres of Greek poetry and prose and aims to foster an awareness of the interrelationships between later and earlier periods of Greek literature, such as Homeric epic and the Greek literature of the Roman empire. For details of each year’s prescribed texts, consult the module booklet and/or the School of Classics Honours booklet.

Pre-requisite(s):
Available only to students in an honours programme in classics. Before taking this module you must pass GK1002 and pass LT2004

Anti-requisite(s):
You cannot take this module if you take GK2003

Learning and teaching methods of delivery:
Weekly contact: Induction in Orientation Week, then 3 or 4 classes weekly.

Assessment pattern:
As defined by QAA:
Written Examinations = 80%, Practical Examinations = 0%, Coursework = 20%

As used by St Andrews:
2-hour Written Examination = 40%, Coursework = 60% (essay, 20%, 3 class tests, 40%)

Re-assessment pattern:
3-hour Written Examination = 100%

This module will explore the symposium, a key cultural institution of the ancient Greek world, through its representation and dramatisation in both poetry and prose. The texts studied, which were produced for performance at symposia and/or designed to evoke the mentality and preoccupations (alcoholic, erotic, political, religious, and cultural) associated with sympotic gatherings, will range from the lyric and elegiac poetry of the archaic period, via the two Socratic Symposia of Plato and Xenophon in the fourth century, to the continued thematisation of the symposium in Hellenistic epigrams. The module will also make some supplementary use of pictorial evidence for the history of the symposium, paying comparative attention to the roles of poetic and visual material within sympiasic culture.

Anti-requisite(s)
You cannot take this module if you take CL4503

Learning and teaching methods of delivery:
- Weekly contact: 2 x 1-hour seminars and 1 coursework consultation hour.

We shall examine stories about the Athenian past, particularly the myth of 'autochthony', according to which the Athenians’ native land gave birth to their ancestors. We shall consider the role played by these stories in shaping Athenian civic identity; our focus will be on the sophisticated exploration of and response to these stories in Athenian literature, rhetoric and philosophy. An important theme discussed by these texts is the political expediency of telling falsehoods about the past. The set texts will be Euripides’ Ion, selected parts of Isocrates’ political writing, Plato’s Menexenus and selected parts of Plato’s Republic.

GK4119 Texts and Objects in the Greek World

SCOTCAT Credits: 30
SCQF Level 10
Semester  1

Academic year: 2018/9

Availability restrictions: Available to General Degree students with the permission of the Honours Adviser

Planned timetable: Wednesday

How do texts evoke the experience of viewing and touching objects? How does this differ from the sensory experience of objects? Where does the boundary lie between texts and objects in instances of inscribed three-dimensional objects such as coins, inscriptions and statues, or 'technopaegnia' (poems written in the shape of an object)? This module innovatively combines the study of texts in Greek with material objects including art. As such it has a reduced set text component while it has an additional booklet of set images; and it includes an object handling session. The set texts are passages carefully chosen from a broad range including Homer, Hellenistic epigrams and novels of the imperial period. Texts and images are studied side by side for what they reveal about Greek attitudes to everyday objects like tableware and weapons, through special artefacts like penknives and automata, to high art by named artists, and monuments and buildings such as sculpted gravestones and temples.

Pre-requisite(s): 40 credits from GK2001, GK2002, GK2003, GK2004, including one pass at 11 or better, or a pass in GK3022, or evidence of equivalent linguistic achievement.

Learning and teaching methods of delivery:

GK4121 Violence in Early Greek Poetry

SCOTCAT Credits: 30
SCQF Level 10
Semester  1

Academic year: 2018/9

Availability restrictions: Available to General Degree students with the permission of the Honours Adviser

Planned timetable: TBC

This module explores the role of violence in early Greek culture. The primary focus will be on literature, and we will study closely relevant passages from a broad range of texts in the original Greek (Homer, Hesiod, Simonides, Pindar/ Baccylides, Solon and others). But we will also attempt to put the literature into a broader context by looking at some significant pieces of art (vase painting, sculpture, etc.). The aim of the module is to achieve a better understanding of ways of depicting violence in early Greek literature and art (the language of violence, if you like), how ancient attitudes to violence differ from modern ones, and what the function of violence is within the context of the artefacts we will examine.

Learning and teaching methods of delivery:
Weekly contact: 2 x 1-hour seminars.
Scheduled learning: 22 hours
Guided independent study: 278 hours

Assessment pattern:
As defined by QAA:
Written Examinations = 55%, Practical Examinations = 0%, Coursework = 45%
