This module explores the work of some of the most significant Fannanat, Arab women artists and intellectuals and their contribution to Modern and contemporary Arab cultures. The module will focus on four main media of artistic expression and cultural significance: poetry, fiction, film and non-fictional writing (essay, article, autobiographical writing). The main aims of the module are to consolidate the students' knowledge of modern standard Arabic, and to enhance their active use of it (through speaking and writing). The module is also designed to develop the students' analytical and critical skills of texts and films as they become acquainted with the contribution of women to modern Arab culture and society. All written primary sources will be in Arabic (films will be in Arabic with subtitles), secondary sources will be either in Arabic or in English. Oral presentations and the oral exam will be in Arabic, in-class discussions and written work will be either in Arabic or in English.

Pre-requisite(s): Before taking this module you must pass AR2001 and pass AR2002 (students need to have been admitted to study arabic at honours)

The year-long dissertation offers students the possibility to engage in advanced independent study on a topic in Arabic and Middle East Studies on which they already have adequate basic knowledge and for which a suitable supervisor can be found. The dissertation will, as a rule, consist of a study of a body of primary material in a given perspective. Its length should be 10,000 words maximum, and it should be submitted in accordance with guidelines and deadlines, and normally be written in English. The topic must be agreed in advance by the Head of Department following a recommendation by the supervisor, whom students should contact in the first instance. Agreement is subject to appropriate supervision arrangements, suitability of topic and sufficient prior knowledge. (Guidelines for printing and binding dissertations can be found at: http://www.st-andrews.ac.uk/printanddesign/dissertation/).

Pre-requisite(s): Available only to students in the final year of the honours programme

The module will expose students to alternative approaches to the study of culture and cultural production, allowing them to reach their own definitions of the discipline of Comparative Literature in the context of comparative cultural studies. Five key areas in Cultural Studies will be addressed: (1) Defining Culture, (2) Hegemony, Articulation and Discourse in Cultural Studies, (3) Intellectuals, Truth and Power, (4) Gender and Culture, (5) Representation, Resistance and Violence in Cultural Production. The module will also give students the opportunity to improve their essay writing through a reflective learning log and coursework essay.

This module will build on the knowledge of translation issues gained in CO3002 and apply it to arguably the most significant source for the European and American literary traditions - the Bible. Conceiving the relationship between individual authors and the biblical sources on which they draw as dynamic and symbiotic, it will analyse the role assumed by the Bible in the work of authors from different linguistic traditions. Its central concern is to give students the conceptual tools necessary to interpret the influence of this religious text, or collection of texts, in works that depart from canonical articulation or sanction, and to chart the historical development of its literary representation to the present day.

CO4021 Autobiography and the Visual Arts

SCOTCAT Credits: 15
SCQF Level: 10
Semester: 1

Academic year: 2019/0
Availability restrictions: Not automatically available to General Degree students
Planned timetable: To be arranged.

In recent decades, life-writing has taken a decidedly visual turn. The incorporation of visual arts (painting, photography and cinema) in autobiographical texts and films raises and redefines issues central to the genre: (how) can the self be ‘narrated’? What role do images play in the process of self-reflection? Other aspects discussed in this module will include the use of painting, photography, and cinema as metaphors of life writing; the merging of the public and private spheres in art; the creation of hybrid texts and art works and the question of innovation; the gendered aspects of these visual modes of writing the self. Texts studied may include travel diaries of painters; autobiographical films; hybrid autobiographical texts incorporating illustrations; autobiographical texts by women artists; texts reflecting on theory and practice of ‘photo-biography’; artistic projects framing the self as art work. The module will focus primarily on works from the end of the nineteenth century until the present and will include collaboration with the School of Art History.

This module will explore the wide range of functions and representations of illness and disease in a variety of European (French, English, German, Italian and Russian) literary and theoretical texts from the 14th to the 20th century, and how its metaphorical employment can reflect changing beliefs related to individual identity, socio-cultural codes, narrative construction and the possibilities and limitations of language itself. Starting with a brief theoretical overview of modern canonical writings on illness by Virginia Woolf, Susan Sontag and Elaine Scarry which will provide an introduction to common tropes of mythologizing and metaphorizing illness, as well as the linguistic challenges to its representation, we will move on to focused thematic explorations of disease, employing close comparative readings of texts to reflect upon and discuss three broad topics: early plague narratives; the aesthetics of Romantic illness and the idea of illness as enlightenment; and the modern and postmodern employment of disease to subvert canonical representations of time and language in literature.

This module is about 'the best' writing. We will consider the notion of classicism in Italian, French and German literature, tracing the endeavours of generations of writers to rise to the challenge of antiquity by creating literary art which is well-proportioned, harmonious, and which advocates humanist ideals. Through this course, you will not only be introduced to some of the greatest writers Europe has produced (Goethe, Racine, Petrarch), you will develop as a comparatist by learning to reflect critically on national narratives of literary history. In particular, we will ask not only what classicism is, but also why writers and literary historians have felt it necessary to create their own, national classical centres and to what extent these are culturally specific.

The module explores the relationship between a number of 'great works' and their adaptations (into for instance, film, graphic novel, opera, poetry, play, etc.). Various possible relationships between the original texts and their adaptations will be examined, as will definitions and terms: when, and why, might a reworking of a text no longer qualify as an 'adaptation'? What do we mean by an 'original' text and by a 'great work'? How do we judge the success or failure of an adaptation? Students will come face to face with some of these issues first hand as they create and reflect upon their own adaptations.

This module will compare writing about the experience of exile (real and imagined) by writers of different centuries, languages and cultures. We will consider the particular historical and political circumstances in each case, and how this intersects with the conceptualization and literary expression of the experience of exile by each writer, and examine literary points of contact, commonality and difference. All works will be read in English translation. Texts will be drawn from a range of languages including Arabic, French, German, Italian, Latin, Persian and Spanish, and genres which may include poetry, the novel, the short story, the graphic novel and film.

This module explores critical theories relating to ‘écriture de soi’ as well as a variety of recent autobiographical and autofictional practices, reflecting significant trends in twentieth- and twenty-first century French literature. Texts included in the corpus will prompt discussions on childhood, memory, (life)-writing, language, education and identity. Students will be encouraged to adopt a comparative approach in order to reveal the interdisciplinary nature of life-writing, the use of photography, fiction and imagination in autobiography and autofiction, and to conceptualise potential links between genre and gender.

This module will focus on filmic adaptations of major French and Francophone literary works. Emphasis will be placed on the specificities and differences between film and literary text as well as their similarities. Whilst addressing questions about narrative and representation, this module will engage with the political dimensions of the process of appropriation at play in adaptation, in particular in the light of the development of postcolonial and feminist studies. It will lead to a discussion and analysis of the question of French and Francophone identity and its evolution both in literary and visual culture.

The objective of the module is language learning and cultural familiarisation through a work placement in a French-speaking country. Placements will be as Language Assistants in schools or on other assignments approved by the department. Formal learning and assessment will be through: (i) a supervised project of 5,000 words in French chosen in consultation with the module co-ordinator. Guided stages (unassessed) of the dissertation to be submitted at various specified points during the year, across both semesters. The dissertation to be submitted in May. (ii) a 10-minute oral exam in French to be sat upon the student’s return to St Andrews after the WIYA year, during which the year abroad experience will be presented and discussed.

While diversity and inclusivity are at the forefront of current debates about curriculum in the arts and humanities, the field of C19th French poetry is dominated by a handful of male authors (Hugo, Baudelaire, Verlaine, Rimbaud, Mallarmé) who share a narrow spectrum of identity markers. This module is designed to broaden our critical analysis of the field by studying the work of female, working-class, outsider and non-native French-language poets alongside the established ‘greatest’. The aim is not to ignore or overthrow the canon entirely, but rather, to bring it into productive dialogue with other, long-neglected, voices in order to re-examine fundamental questions about literary value, the socio-economic forces behind canon creation and maintenance, discrimination and omission. The lecturer and all students will work together in selecting the authors to be studied, and students will be encouraged to propose new texts for inclusion on the module as their research, using online library.

Relations between the medieval Occident and Orient were highly complex during a period that saw violent crusades and interracial conflicts. Cases abound where notions of East and West merge and the East itself may even appear as no more than fantasy. Alongside the hideous monsters common to medieval epic, throughout the 12th-13th centuries there are many examples of fascination with the East that betray a desire to emulate its opulence as well as a fear of the foreign. This module consequently aims to introduce students to a variety of literary representations of the medieval East and its residents, focussing above all on representations of cultural difference, the marvellous, and the exotic. The set texts give students the chance to engage with theoretical questions of otherness, fantasy and gender in relation to the specific historical period in question and to develop their ability to work critically with primary materials.

This module focuses on the major works of Flaubert as prisms for understanding the ideological and aesthetic contexts of their times (1820-1870) and ours. Flaubert’s exploration and representation of subjects including the taboo, and fictional transgressions of nineteenth-century literary norms make his works deeply relevant to investigating similar twenty-first-century issues and debates. Seminars explore texts in chronological order through a programme of prescribed passages for close reading, topics for class discussion and individual and group tasks involving engagement with secondary critical resources. One aim of the course is to ascertain what is transgressive and avant-garde in Flaubert’s works. Another is to understand how literary works of the past can provide prescient insights into issues in contemporary France as a first-world culture. The overall structure of the course proactively facilitates textual/contextual analysis and synthesis as well as investigative learning.

This module allows students to develop and improve writing techniques in French and to build self-critical awareness on the writing process. The development of reading and writing skills will be supported by the study of various types of texts (which may include short stories, poetry, autobiography and fiction). Teaching and learning will be workshop-based, with the use of textual and visual stimuli to trigger imagination and inspiration. Students will be expected to share extracts from their work in progress and to engage with their own, and other students', written productions, to re-work and improve pieces.

Pre-requisite(s): Permission of the french honours adviser

What does it mean to write as a woman? What does it mean to write as a particular woman in a specific place, at a specific time? What, if anything, does the term 'women's writing' actually mean, and do we still need it? This module introduces students to some of the most important approaches to French feminist theory and literary studies since the publication of Simone de Beauvoir’s Le Deuxième sexe in 1949. It then goes on to consider four novels by women writers publishing between the 1970s and the present, asking to what extent they can be read in terms of feminist theory, and how their representation of the social, cultural and artistic position of being a woman and a writer changes with the times.

The dissertation offers students the possibility of personal advanced study on a topic on which they already have adequate basic knowledge and for which a suitable Supervisor can be found. Guidance will be offered on research methods and on presentation. The dissertation can be either a) a study of a given body of primary material in a given perspective, or b) a critical review of a range of secondary material on a given subject. It should be no more than 5,000 words in length, be submitted in accordance with guidelines and deadlines, and normally be written in English. The topic must be agreed in advance by the Head of Department following a favourable report from the Supervisor, whom students should contact in the first instance. Agreement is subject to appropriate supervision arrangements, suitability of topic and sufficient prior knowledge. (Guidelines for printing and binding dissertations can be found at: http://www.st-andrews.ac.uk/printanddesign/dissertation/).

Pre-requisite(s): The pre-requisites may be waived if the student has spent a year or semester abroad. Before taking this module you must pass FR3001. In taking this module, you cannot take a 30-credit dissertation in another subject in the school of modern languages.

Anti-requisite(s): This module is compatible with obligatory 30-credit dissertation modules taken outside the school of modern languages.

This module offers students the opportunity of personal study arising from a work placement or research project in connection with their science course. It will be assessed by a dissertation in French, normally 5,000 words in length including any quotations, on an agreed topic for which the student already possesses adequate foundation knowledge and for which suitable supervision can be provided. During the work placement or project year, students will collect data for their dissertation and will prepare a plan in French which will be submitted at the beginning of their final year. This will provide a benchmark for writing the dissertation, which will allow any relevant knowledge acquired during the final year to be incorporated. There are few German writers whose name is as instantly recognizable, for good or ill, as Friedrich Nietzsche. Nietzsche’s enduring appeal is due, in large measure, to his skill as a stylist and to the literariness of his work. In this module, students will analyse key works by Nietzsche from a literary point of view, treating stylistic features, recurrent themes and symbols, and structural patterns. Though a unique figure in many ways, neither Nietzsche nor his writing can be disentangled from their time; students will thus be led to consider correspondences and differences between Nietzsche and other nineteenth-century authors.

This module affords students the chance to study a major novel of post-war Germany, Thomas Mann’s Doktor Faustus, and through this novel to gain a larger knowledge of Mann’s work as a whole. In a series of seminars students will be guided through their reading of the work. These reading seminars will be interspersed with lectures and seminars on key themes in Mann’s oeuvre and life, from music to his political development. In addition to the main text, students will examine other genres (essays, letters) and gain broader insights into the historical situation of post-war Germany.

The literary mode of the Gothic is well established in English Studies and there is growing interest in its internationality. Gothic fiction is seen as transgressive, especially in the way it crosses borders, but also in its challenge to standards of taste. This module will explore the development and international reception of the German Gothic from the 1790s heyday of the Schauerroman via the Gothic undercurrents in modernism to recent embodiments of the historical uncanny in post-Wall novels. What role does the Gothic play in processes of cultural transfer? How does it relate to literary canons, including the modernist canon? How do Gothic motifs and tropes shape early cinema? These and other questions will be addressed in an exploration of what has, since the Enlightenment, been a vital mode of European culture.

The objective of the module is language learning and cultural familiarisation through a work placement in a German-speaking country. Placements will be as Language Assistants in schools or on other assignments approved by the department. Formal learning and assessment will be through: (i) a supervised project of 5,000 words in German chosen in consultation with the module co-ordinator. Guided stages (unassessed) of the dissertation to be submitted at various specified points during the year, across both semesters. The dissertation to be submitted in May. (ii) a 10-minute oral exam in German to be sat upon the student’s return to St Andrews after the WIYA year, during which the year abroad experience will be presented and discussed.

GM4058 Memory and the Archive in Contemporary German Culture

SCOTCAT Credits: 15  SCQF Level: 10  Semester: 1

Academic year: 2019/0
Availability restrictions: Not automatically available to General Degree students
Planned timetable: TBC

This module considers the relationship between memory and the archive in contemporary German-language culture. It introduces students to theoretical approaches to both memory and the archive (including theories of trauma, photography, and media archaeology) to show how these two concepts are closely linked. The word “archive” can refer to material, externalized forms of memory, to the media of memory (such as photographs and film), to sites of memory (museums and libraries), or it can serve as a metaphor for memory. Drawing on a range of primary sources (film, literature, and visual art), the module will consider how and why the relationship between memory and the archive is significant for our understanding of different cultural and historical contexts (e.g. World War Two and the Holocaust, the GDR, postwar Austria, post-Wende Germany). It examines why and how artists and authors use archival material and forms in their work from a number of perspectives.

GM4070 Writing Nature: German Environmental Thought (1800 - 2000)

SCOTCAT Credits: 15  SCQF Level: 10  Semester: 2

Academic year: 2019/0
Availability restrictions: Not automatically available to General Degree students
Planned timetable: 3.00 pm Thu.

Environmental thought gathered momentum in the final quarter of the twentieth century impelled by the experience of the Oil Crisis of the 1970s and the publication of the UN Human Environment Report The Limits of Growth (1972). Faced with mounting evidence of scarce resources and environmental damage, industrialized societies were compelled to confront their assumptions about growth and development. Nowhere was this confrontation more intense than in the two Germanies, where environmental ideas chimed with a tradition of cultural criticism that stretched back to Weimar Classicism and to the Naturphilosophie of the German Romantics. In this module we shall study the intellectual sources of German environmentalism, paying particular attention to the role of literature in mediating representations of nature and human agency. How significant are representations of nature for our relationship to the environment? What role does literature have to play in communicating and reflecting upon environmental ideas? What are environmental aesthetics and environmental history? This module seeks to provide answers to these and other questions vital to understanding the pivotal function of culture in promoting the ‘necessary unity’ of mind and nature (Bateson).

Recent popular culture and the media in German-speaking Europe have been fascinated with masculinity, a trend that coincides with a boom in scholarship on the subject. Masculinity is at the centre of contradictions in contemporary culture, with debates over so-called ‘toxic masculinity’ existing alongside a broadening of the term to include queer and female masculinities. This module explores what masculinity means in German-speaking culture and how literature, film and TV contribute to constructing, perpetuating and challenging gender norms. Students engage with representations of masculinity in a range of texts, films, television and advertising. We will consider depictions of sports, club culture, workplace and youth cultures as portrayed on page and screen, in order to gain a broad and nuanced understanding of contemporary gender. Students will gain advanced skills in film and narrative analysis and will gain an introduction to prominent theories of gender and masculinity.

This module investigates the early modern genre of the Prosaroman, a collection of fifteenth- and sixteenth-century prose narratives often regarded as precursors to the modern novel. We will analyse how novels such as Melusine, Fortunatus and Historia von D. Johann Fausten capture the tensions and conflicts of the transitional period of which they are a product. At the same time, we will consider later adaptations of these texts and their central motifs, e.g. by Fontane, Chamisso and Goethe. We will probe into the significance which the original prose novels held for the later texts, which appropriate them in a diverse manner shaped by the varied demands of Weimar classicism, romanticism and social realism, and will examine the presence of narrative strategies and continuities in approach which connect the early modern novel to its latter-day re-workings.

The end of the GDR also saw the closure of the East German Film studios, DEFA, threatening its films with commercial oblivion. However, since reunification the many culturally and artistically significant films made under DEFA have increasingly attracted critical attention. This module will consider a number of these films spanning four decades in order to explore the way in which they navigate the political and censorial climate of the GDR and such issues as: East German cultural identity, the politics of the ordinary, the East German realist aesthetic, gender identities and feminism, the conflict between the individual and the state and the role of the artist in the GDR. We conclude the course by considering a film produced post reunification.

Planned timetable: Please Contact Department

The dissertation offers students the possibility of personal advanced study on a topic in German on which they already have adequate basic knowledge and for which a suitable Supervisor can be found. Guidance will be offered on research methods and on presentation. The dissertation will, as a rule, consist of a study of a body of primary material in a given perspective. Its length should be 10,000 words maximum, and it should be submitted in accordance with guidelines and deadlines, and normally be written in English. The topic must be agreed in advance by the Head of Department following a recommendation by the Supervisor, whom students should contact in the first instance. Agreement is subject to appropriate supervision arrangements, suitability of topic and sufficient prior knowledge. (Guidelines for printing and binding dissertations can be found at: http://www.st-andrews.ac.uk/printanddesign/dissertation/).

Detective stories are enormously popular in Italy but the genre has generally been regarded as primarily Anglo-Saxon. The prominence of a number of Italian crime writers in the 1990's prompted talk of a giallo nazionale and a reconsideration of the history of the genre dating Italian crime fiction back to the nineteenth century. This module studies the history of the detective novel in Italy, considers critical approaches to the genre, and examines the treatment of common features and themes by writers such as Leonardo Sciascia, Giorgio Scerbanenco, Umberto Eco, Carlo Lucarelli, Lorio Macchiavelli, and Andrea Camilleri.

The module looks at how the phenomenon of Italian mass emigration has been represented in Italian culture since 1960. Through the study of texts such as Melania Mazzucco's Vita, Carmine Abate's Il muro dei muri, and Laura Pariani's Quando dio ballava il tango, the module looks at how Italian identity is affected by cultural mobility across continents. The texts deal with emigration to a range of different locations - USA, Germany, Argentina, Australia - but the emphasis of the module is on how these texts construct Italy from a distance. The module looks at questions of home and belonging, cultural hybridity, emigrant language, and the various historical forces which prompted Italians to migrate.

Italian vernacular literature begins with lyric poetry, and early Italian poetry includes refined expressions of love, mystical spirituality, political critique, philosophical speculation, social satire and ribald humour. This module will examine lyric poetry in Italy from its origins to Dante, its roots, movements, forms, genres and tropes. We will study texts by poets such as Jacopone da Todi, Giacomo da Lentini, Guittone d’Arezzo, Bonagiunta da Lucca, Guido Guinizelli, Guido Cavalcanti, Cino da Pistoia, Cecco Angiolieri, Rustico di Filippo, and Dante Alighieri.

This module requires students to analyse novels and films related to the Fascist period in order to gain an in-depth knowledge of this complex period of Italian history. We will look at issues relating to national identity, power construction, resistance to power and the construction and rejection of ideals of masculinity and femininity. Students will study novels by authors including Bontempelli, Masino, Levi and films by directors including Blasetti and Genina.

Mussolini famously declared that cinema was Fascism’s most powerful weapon. Hi opponents often decried the propagandist quality of much of the film-making which took place under the regime. This module examines the Italian film industry between 1930 (the arrival of talkies in Italy) and 1943 (the fall of the regime). It will study the range of films produced under Fascism - comedies, melodrama, historical epics, documentary - to uncover the complexity of the links between Fascism and film.

The module looks at the relationship between Italian identity and whiteness. In the nineteenth century Italian race theorists argued for a close connection between Africa and the Italian South at a time when Italy’s colonial adventure was about to start. The fascist publication La difesa della razza tried to protect the nation from contamination by other races but especially Jews. Recent migration to Italy from across the globe has provoked a range of challenges to the nature of Italian identity. Through the study of a range of literary and film texts from the 1860s to the present day, this module explores Italy’s abiding concern with protecting its own whiteness from contamination.

The dissertation offers students the possibility of personal advanced study on an Italian topic on which they already have adequate basic knowledge and for which a suitable Supervisor can be found. Guidance will be offered on research methods and on presentation. The Dissertation can be either a) a study of a given body of primary material in a given perspective, or b) a critical review of a range of secondary material on a given subject. It should be no more than 5,000 words in length, be submitted in accordance with guidelines and deadlines, and normally be written in English. The topic must be formally agreed in advance with the potential supervisor and the Head of the Italian Department. Agreement is subject to appropriate supervision arrangements, suitability of topic and sufficient prior knowledge. (Guidelines for printing and binding dissertations can be found at: http://www.st-andrews.ac.uk/printanddesign/dissertation/).

Pre-requisite(s):
Before taking this module you must pass IT3002. This prerequisite may be replaced by the equivalent study abroad. In taking this module, you cannot take a 30-credit dissertation in another subject within the school of modern languages.

Anti-requisite(s):
In taking this module you cannot take IT4097 or take IT4099 or a 30-credit dissertation in another subject within the school of modern languages.

The objective of the module is language learning and cultural familiarisation through a combination of work placements or periods of approved study spent successively in two countries where the languages in the student's Honours degree programme are spoken. The particular components of this type of integrated year abroad are subject to specific approval by the Head of School (or delegate) in the first semester of the preceding year. Any student considering this module must seek early advice on the acceptability of the proposed pattern of residence and work/study abroad. Formal learning and assessment will be through: (i) a supervised project of 5,000 words in one of the two target languages (4,000 words in Russian) chosen in consultation with the module co-ordinator. Guided stages (unassessed) of the dissertation to be submitted at various specified points during the year, across both semesters. The dissertation to be submitted in May. (ii) a 10-minute oral exam in the other of the two target languages to be sat upon the student’s return to St Andrews after the WIYA year, during which the year abroad experience will be presented and discussed.

Pre-requisite(s): Admission to honours programme with integrated year abroad
Anti-requisite(s): Cannot take any other whole year study abroad module
Learning and teaching methods of delivery: This is a Study Abroad or External Placement module

Students will learn about key twentieth-century authors through reading biographies and critical writing in Persian and English. They will also read, translate and discuss at least one sample of writing by each of these authors. The module is primarily designed to expose students to modern poetry and short stories and to improve and broaden students' knowledge of literary analysis in general and Persian literature and culture in particular. Students will be required to translate Persian poetry and prose passages into English and analyse them. This module will also address the sociopolitical contexts in which these literary works were produced.

This module introduces students to the study of cinema as a mode of representation of social history by offering a social overview of cinema in Iran since the 1960s. Looking at films as a mirror reflecting the society, this module will offer a chronological history of Iranian cinema while also addressing changes in Iranian society. Students will be given a reading list to complement the lectures, the contents of which will provide a basis for seminar discussions. There will be one film screening per week accompanying the lectures and students will be encouraged to develop their own critical approach through seminars and discussions. No knowledge of Persian is required for this module, but students with a knowledge of Persian will be given access to Persian language material where appropriate.

Pre-requisite(s): Honours entry into Persian, or otherwise with the permission of the head of school

Students study five Iranian plays by Hassan Moqaddam, Bahram Beyzaie, Bahman Forsi, Mohammad Yaqubi and Nghmeh Samini, selected to trigger discussions about, modernity and its pitfalls, resistance and cultural transformation, and the aesthetics of modern drama. The students will also translate some passages of the plays and discuss their performing potential. While the course is language-based, the module is designed to broaden students' knowledge of the history of Iranian modernity, and the aesthetic qualities and cultural functions of Iranian drama and its relationship with world drama. It will also provide them with the opportunity to improve their textual analysis and write critical pieces in Persian.

This module will be focused on the evolution of modern song in Iran between the 1890s and the present. Students will become familiar with the historical context and analyse the poetic, cultural and musical structures of 40 songs while being exposed to a variety of cultural theories which will enable them to analyse the impact of the songs on transforming or reflecting long established traditions or promoting or resisting dominant cultural and political discourses at the time they were first performed and in their later adaptations. They will also gain indirect knowledge of about 100 other songs, which can be used for comparative studies, and study historical and biographical accounts about the lives of their lyricists, singers and composers that can, in turn, be used to introduce them to some very important aspects of modern Persianate cultures.

Learning and teaching methods of delivery: Weekly contact: Students will have one two-hour session every teaching week in which they receive instruction on analysing four songs and understanding their cultural contexts. They will do independent reading during the sixth week which has been set as 'Independent Reading Week'.

This module will offer students the initial tools for reading classical Persian poetry and prose. It will provide the basic historical and analytical knowledge needed for the critical understanding of major genres and themes in classical Persian literature. It will also familiarize students with the literary schools instrumental in the development of the Persian literary heritage. Through the study of selected texts, students will learn about the figures of speech, poetic and prose structures and imagery common to classical Persian literary texts. They will also read brief biographies of several key figures in Persian classical literature and read and translate at least one sample work by each author.

Pre-requisite(s): Permission of the persian honours adviser. Before taking this module you must pass PR4001

Co-requisite(s): You must also take PR4002

Learning and teaching methods of delivery:

This is to give students the option of writing their dissertation on a topic in Persian to help develop their research skills and provide the opportunity for them to build a solid academic foundation should the students want to continue their studies. The dissertation offers students the possibility of personal advanced study on a topic in Persian on which they already have adequate knowledge and for which a suitable supervisor can be found. Guidance will be offered on research methods, perspective and presentation. The dissertation will, as a rule, consist of a study of a given body of primary material analysed with reference to a number of secondary texts on the primary material with a given perspective. It should be no more than 5,000 words in length, be submitted in accordance with guidelines and deadlines, and normally be written in English. The topic must be agreed in advance by the Head of Department following a recommendation by the supervisor, whom students should contact in the first instance. Agreement is subject to appropriate supervision arrangements, suitability of topic and sufficient prior knowledge. (Guidelines for printing and binding dissertations can be found at: http://www.st-andrews.ac.uk/printanddesign/dissertation/).

Pre-requisite(s): The student cannot take a 30-credit dissertation in another subject within the school of modern languages. Before taking this module you must pass PR3002

Anti-requisite(s): This module is compatible with obligatory 30-credit dissertation modules taken outside the school of modern languages.

This module is designed to build on the knowledge of Russian literature and culture acquired at sub-honours level, with particular focus on the ground-breaking contribution made by Russian dramatists, directors and practitioners to theatre and performance in the twentieth century. Students will study key dramatic texts as well as their staging in society, engaging with the theory and practice of highly influential directors such as Vsevolod Meyerhold and Konstantin Stanislavsky, and taking into consideration choreography, music, set design and audience reception as vital components of a production. The module will examine the way political concerns and censorship impacted on the creation of Russian theatre and consider how competing visions of new identities, lifestyles and values were depicted on the stage. The syllabus will include works by authors such as Anton Chekhov, Vladimir Mayakovsky, Alexander Vampilov and Liudmila Petrushevskaya.

Pre-requisite(s): Before taking this module you must pass RU2202 or pass RU2204

The objective of the module is language learning and cultural familiarisation through a study placement in Russia. Placements will be as students in Russian at a Foreign Language department at universities or in language schools. Assessment will be through: (i) a supervised project of 4,000 words in Russian chosen in consultation with the module co-ordinator. Guided stages (unassessed) of the dissertation to be submitted at various specified points during the year, across both semesters. The dissertation to be submitted in May. (ii) a 10-minute oral exam in Russian to be sat upon the student's return to St Andrews after the WIYA year, during which the year abroad experience will be presented and discussed.

Pre-requisite(s): In taking this module you must have admission to a russian honours programme with integrated year abroad and must not be on an erasmus exchange. Before taking this module you must pass RU2202 or pass RU2204 or pass RU2206

Anti-requisite(s): In taking this module you cannot take RU3102 or erasmus exchange

Semester: 1

Academic year: 2019/0
Availability restrictions: Not automatically available to General Degree students
Planned timetable: To be arranged.

This module investigates contemporary Russian culture and society by examining its relationship with the Soviet past, the institutions of memory that mediate this relationship and the cultural practices that inform it. Students will be introduced to a number of critical ideas in memory scholarship, including 'sites of memory' [lieux de mÚmoire], institutions of memory, the falsification of memory, collective amnesia, aphasia, and others. While the module focuses on issues in Russian cultural memory, particularly memory of the post-Stalin and perestroika eras, the theory and criticism studied ranges more widely, including French and British theorists and practitioners. In seminars, students will engage with memoirs, diaries, oral testimony, films, documentaries, and online archives to explore the narrative and aesthetic consequences of the historicising impulse in contemporary Russian culture.

This module is designed to familiarise students with one of the most ideologically important bodies of literature published in the post-Stalin period, Soviet 'Village Prose'. Students will read works by a number of the most influential writers to have contributed to the genre, including Vasilii Belov, Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn, Vasili Shukshin, and Valentin Rasputin, and engage with the para-literary criticism that emerged around the literary movement. In order to locate the texts within their social and cultural contexts the module will begin with two introductory sessions devoted to the question of urban and rural transformation and its literary treatment. Thereafter, the module will be taught through seminars that examine the themes of urban-rural opposition, village byt, nature, childhood and memory, a number of which will be student-led and introduced by student presentations. Many of the primary texts are available only in Russian and so discussion throughout the module will make reference to the Russian originals.

The fantastic is a genre which interrogates the boundaries between the natural and the supernatural in order to provoke interpretative ambiguity. Developing out of the romantic tradition and alongside the rise of the realist novel, the fantastic enjoyed considerable popularity in Russia and was practised by many of its most notable writers. This module builds on the knowledge of nineteenth-century literature acquired at sub-honours level as students read examples of the fantastic by such writers as Pogorel'ski, Pushkin, Zagoskin, Gogol', Odovetskii, Lermontov, Turgenev, Dostoevskii, Garshin and Chekhov. Analysis of the chosen texts will make reference to theories of the fantastic proposed since c.1950 as well as to narrative theory.

This module is designed to build on the knowledge of Russian literature and culture acquired at sub-honours level, focusing in particular on issues of gender. Some of the most important writers of the nineteenth, twentieth and twenty-first centuries will be studied (such as Ivan Turgenev, Nikolay Chernyshevsky, Isaac Babel, Vladimir Mayakovsky, Mikhail Bulgakov, Alexandr Solzhenitsyn), alongside women writers, more recently added to the canon (this may include works by Karolina Pavlova, Nadezhda Durova, Anna Akhmatova, Lyudmila Petrushevskaya). The module will explore how culturally specific Russian instantiations of ideas about femininity, masculinity and queerness interact with Western theories of gender and sexuality. Focusing on both traditional and subversive representations of gender, students will examine their development from the mid-nineteenth century to present day. Independent reading and study will form a major element of the module.

This module is designed to build on the knowledge of Russian literature acquired at sub-honours and honours level and, more specifically, to explore utopian and dystopian ideas in Russian culture as they have developed from the 19th to the 21st Century. Literary works by canonical Russian writers will be studied, including works by Fyodor Dostoevskii, Evgeny Zamiatin, Andrei Platonov and Vladimir Makanin. Students will also be encouraged to critically reassess the canon and to examine utopian thinking though a range of cultural mediums, including art, theatre, architecture and cinema, in which a greater plurality of voices, genders and ethnicities are represented. The module asks students to engage critically with utopian/dystopian concepts and to question their role in shaping societies and identities. There will be an opportunity for students to produce their own utopian or dystopian-inspired piece of creative work (i.e. prose, poetry, film etc.), assessed by a reflective commentary.

The overall objective of this core module is to promote advanced skills in listening, speaking, reading and writing in Spanish. In addition there will be elements that stimulate a high level of awareness of grammar. The syllabus is based on a selection of modern Spanish texts from both Spain and Spanish America which are used as sources for the study of various registers through reading and listening comprehension, precis and writing and rewriting exercises. The grammar involves a full understanding of an array of issues dealt with by Butt and Benjamin.

The overall objective of this core module is to promote advanced skills in listening, speaking, reading and writing in Spanish. The syllabus combines two main types of material: listening comprehension on the basis of recordings and a selection of texts for the study of different linguistic registers (including dialogues from fictional works and essays, books and sports reviews and written portraits of famous characters from newspapers.)

This module is designed to guide and train the student of the Spanish language in the translation of demanding literary texts, both from and into Spanish. The emphasis will be on practical translation. The source texts will be chosen so as to represent a variety of periods, genres and registers. The module has a complementary relationship to language work in the core language modules. It will require systematic use of sources of information about Spanish (e.g. dictionaries, grammars). Emphasis will be placed on the quality of the translation. To achieve that end, the module will be conducted in seminar mode in order to stimulate discussion and revision of draft translations.

The objective of the module is language learning and cultural familiarisation through a work placement in a Spanish-speaking country. Placements will be as Language Assistants in schools or on other assignments approved by the department. Formal learning and assessment will be through: (i) a supervised project of 5,000 words in Spanish chosen in consultation with the module co-ordinator. Guided stages (unassessed) of the dissertation to be submitted at various specified points during the year, across both semesters. The dissertation to be submitted in May. (ii) a 10-minute oral exam in Spanish to be sat upon the student's return to St Andrews after the WIYA year, during which the year abroad experience will be presented and discussed.

Pre-requisite(s): To take this module you must have passed SP2002 and have admission to a spanish honours programme with integrated year abroad.

SP3121 Spanish American Literature I (Gauchos and Indians)

SCOTCAT Credits: 15
SCQF Level: 9
Semester: 2
Academic year: 2019/0
Planned timetable: 9:00 am - 10:30 am Wed

The aim of the module is to study a selection of Spanish American 'Americanist' texts. These are works which are self-consciously Latin American in their depiction of historical or cultural aspects of the continent. The selection is likely to include works dealing with one or more of the following topics: gauchos, Indians, rural Latin America. Three or four texts are studied from a list including Hidalgo's poetry, Facundo, Don Segundo Sombra, Los ríos profundos, Amalia, Doña Barbara and the rural short story in the River Plate. Apart from general and historical introductions, the course proceeds on the basis of seminar papers given by students.

SP3145 Post-1975 Writing in Spain 1

SCOTCAT Credits: 15
SCQF Level: 9
Semester: 2
Academic year: 2019/0
Planned timetable: To be arranged.

The aim of the module is the close study of a selection of literary texts (works of prose fiction and poetry, in the main) produced in the post-Franco period. These narratives distance themselves from the realist (and experimental) mode of writing that dominated much of the literature produced between 1939 and the 1970s. Instead, they construct subjective worlds that, nevertheless, tend towards a universality of experience and can be seen as part of a process of the gradual 'normalization', Europeanisation, and universalisation of Spanish cultural creations. The selection is likely to include five works written by authors born after the end of the Civil War, such as: A. Bautista, F. Benítez Reyes, J. Cercas, L.A. de Cuenca, L. García Montero, J. Marmas, E. Mendoza, A. Muñoz Molina, A. Orejudo, A. Púrez-Reverte, S. Puértolas and A. Rosetti. In the case of poetry, a relevant anthology including some of these authors will be recommended.

| SCOTCAT Credits: | 15 | SCQF Level 9 | Semester | 1 |
| Academic year: | 2019/0 |
| Planned timetable: | 11.00 am - 12.30 pm Wednesday. |

This module is designed to introduce students to the complex and fascinating relations between culture and history within the context of post-Civil War Spain, providing them with an interdisciplinary knowledge of that period. In particular, it aims at exploring the value of film and poetry as modes of cultural resistance to dominant political and ideological discourses. In order to do so, we will be looking at the work of a number of key authors in the history of contemporary Spanish literature (such as José Hierro, Ángel Gonzalez, Gloria Fuertes, Jaime Gil de Biedma, and José Ángel Valente, amongst others) and cinema (typically, L. García Berlanga, J. A. Bardem, B. Martín Patino, V. Erice, C. Saura, etc).

This module will explore changes and tensions in Spanish culture, society, literature and art from the evolution of literary realism and naturalism to the beginning of the historical avant-gardes and the First World War. Through varied materials (poems, short stories, novels, plays, paintings, etc.) students will discuss the transformations of the role of the artist and the intellectual, the modernist 'tradition of the new' and the aesthetical currents of the era. The module will focus on specific literary examples (the novels by Miguel de Unamuno and Jose Martinez Ruiz 'Azorín') as well as the cultural and artistic life of the times through the analysis of literary magazines.

This module introduces writing by women during and after the Franco dictatorship in Spain and trace the developments in female-authored literature that went hand in hand with social and political change. Despite the regime’s insistence on their secondary status and the dismissal of their writing as trivial, several important female writers emerged during the Franco period and their works engage with issues of gender and identity, as well as questions of freedom and conformity. The module will explore how they conveyed a subversive message and portrayed alternative role models to a female readership despite restrictions. The module will also consider how later generations, while echoing some of the same concerns, also draw on Anglo-American traditions in their work. A selection of literary texts by authors such as Carmen Laforet, Rosa Chacel, Carmen Martin Gaite, Ana Maria Matute, Josefa Aldekoa, Rosa Montero, Lucia Etxebarria and Belen Gopegui will be studied.

Academic year: 2019/0
Planned timetable: 2.00 pm - 3.30 pm Thu

Love and loss have been the inspiration, in one way or another, behind most works in world literature. This module aims to provide a sound understanding of important literary works from Spain and Spanish America that explore these complex emotions. The syllabus involves a selection of canonical or critically acclaimed Spanish texts representing different genres, gender authorial perspectives, visions of sexuality, and historical moments, as in the following potential instances: the Romantic play, Don Juan Tenorio (1844); the Realist novel, La Regenta (1885); the Modernista poetry collection, Los cálices vacíos (1913); and the contemporary fiction, Beatriz y los cuerpos celestes (1998). Aspects to be explored are likely to include some or all of the following: loyalty and deception; fulfillment and disappointment; passion and affection; jealousy and revenge. In sum, the whole gamut of emotion in connection with a theme which, more than any other, expresses our humanity.

This module will introduce prose, poetry, theatre, and songs that were written mostly for entertainment in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries in Spain. All works will center around a single protagonist who creates sympathy and enthusiasm in the audience by committing acts of bravery, daring, and cleverness. He or she thus becomes a hero (or heroine) or anti-hero (or anti-heroine) depending on the legality of the act, and the opinion of the audience. Works studied for this module feature superhero-like knights, real stories from soldiers of fortune, but also violent men and women on the wrong side of the law.

This module serves as a high-level introduction to Spanish love lyric in the Early Modern period. It charts what one might term the (r)evolutions in amatory poetry throughout the Renaissance and Baroque periods via some of the finest poets of the age. You will begin with a firm grounding in Petrarch, the rise and circulation of Petrarchist poetics, and the key debates in Neoplatonism that spread throughout Europe and beyond, which underpinned much of the love lyric of the period. The poets who follow fit within one of the three broad camps that appear in the subtitle: perilous, provocative, and parodic. You will consider the rise of the love sonnet and the national figure of Garcilaso de la Vega, engage with research-led teaching on Juan Boscán's move away from courtly poetics and Francisco de Aldana's move towards physicality, as well as the parodic lyric of Catalina Clara Ramírez de Guzmán and Lope de Vega's fictional Tomé de Burguillos.

This module offers students the possibility of personal advanced study on a topic on which they already have adequate basic knowledge and for which a suitable Supervisor can be found. Guidance will be offered on research methods and on presentation. The Critical Review involves the evaluation of a range of secondary material on a given subject. It should be no more than 5,000 words in length, be submitted in accordance with guidelines and deadlines, and normally written in English. The topic must be formally agreed in advance with the research coordinator and potential supervisor. Agreement is subject to appropriate supervision arrangements, suitability of topic and sufficient prior knowledge. (Guidelines for printing and binding dissertations can be found at: http://www.st-andrews.ac.uk/printanddesign/dissertation/).

The dissertation offers students the possibility of personal advanced study on a topic on which they already have adequate basic knowledge and for which a suitably qualified Supervisor can be found. Guidance will be offered on research methods and on presentation. The dissertation will, as a rule, consist of a study of a given body of primary material in a given perspective. Its length should be 10,000 words maximum, and it should be submitted in accordance with guidelines and deadlines, and normally written in English. The topic must be formally agreed in advance with both the research coordinator and potential supervisor. Agreement is subject to appropriate supervision arrangements, suitability of topic and sufficient prior knowledge. (Guidelines for printing and binding dissertations can be found at: http://www.st-andrews.ac.uk/printanddesign/dissertation/).

Focusing on a variety of texts from different periods and geographical areas in the Spanish-speaking world, this module aims to provide the student with a questioning understanding of the importance of the past and the different ways in which the past can be represented depending on the creator's own historical context, intentions and knowledge. In other words, this module will explore how several highly significant historical moments have been represented through fictions. The syllabus will involve the study of a selection of canonical texts from Spain and Spanish America, ranging from the Renaissance to the present day, that raise issues related to the link between history, memory and cultural expression.
